

FFWPU Wales, West Country and West Midlands UK: Celebrate The Day Of All True Things With A Fishing Trip

Michael Balcomb
June 12, 2024

To celebrate the Day of All True Things, the Wales, West Country and West Midlands community hosted a fishing! See how it went below.

This is the third year in a row where the Wales, West Country and West Midlands Holy Community has organised a fishing trip to celebrate the Day of All True Things. In order to understand this holy day, we need to look at God's first divine command to humans. Just after our inception, in Genesis 1:28 God gives us the 3 Great Blessings. As you know, the third blessing is to "have dominion". The synonyms for dominion within Latin and Greek are "lordship", "ownership" and "sovereignty". This means we stewards of this cosmos, as well as co-owners with God.

This year, the trip was set in Paignton, Devon. We had 10 participants who set sail in the cool morning breeze of the south coast of England. We quickly discovered that having dominion is reciprocal between us and the creation. In other words, the fish were not co-operating! We had a slow start, but eventually caught approximately 30 whiting fish between us during our 8 hour trip.

Despite this, the brotherhood and laughter that we shared was worth its weight in salt (especially Devon sea salt). I will conclude this report by saying that ownership includes our brothers and sisters who are part of our flock and our families. We must take responsibility for each other and support each other in our endeavours and difficulties, in addition to being stewards of the cosmos. This is true dominion.