The Las Vegas Family Church celebrated Easter with an outdoor picnic and BBQ. Mr. Herbert Brown spoke about the true meaning of Easter and shared about becoming stronger individuals of faith for the Messiah. Afterwards, the local witnessing team hosted games for the young children and CARP organized activities for the middle school, high school students and adults. The program ended with open mic entertainment by CARP and other performances by local church members and guests.

Inviting guests to attend a picnic BBQ was a fun and friendly way to have guests become more accommodated to our community. One grandmother brought her four grandchildren, and while the children played games, found eggs during the Easter egg hunt and whacked the piñata, she met and conversed with the community members.. "I wanna come back again," mentioned one of the grandchildren as they were leaving. CARP brought six UNLV students to the event and some of them volunteered to come early to set-up and also to help organize games for the smaller children. The members were proud to show the beautiful home of True Parents and were confident that their guests would have a good time. The Las Vegas Family Church intends to host several more of these picnics before the end of the year.
