

Colorado Family Church: Sunday Service Announcement for Tomorrow

Michael Hentrich
June 20, 2020

Dear family,

We are looking forward to another service back together tomorrow. Pastor Adonia will be kicking off a new series based on reflections from Dr. Hak Ja Han Moon, our True Mother's, Memoirs.

It was so nice to see everyone last week, and we are looking forward to gradually working our way back to normalcy in the months to come. We apologize that we ran out of food. We have ordered more food for this Sunday and are also preparing both child and adult to-go boxes. We have also listened to your feedback and are making some changes to the service format to create a better, more comfortable environment, such as eliminating meet and greet time.

Another thing we are doing is we are reopening the cafe this week. Feel free to come early and enjoy a smoothie, bagel sandwich, or coffee drink, and give Elvis some props for his dedication to keeping the cafe running.

Tomorrow is also Father's Day and The Day of All True Things, one of our major Holy Days. We will not be celebrating with a traditional offering table this year. Please celebrate at home with your families, and don't forget to give a special thank you to any fathers or father figures you have in your life.

For those staying home, please feel free to watch the live service that our national ministry team prepares every week at 9am at nationalfamilyservice.org/. We'll try our best to get our local recordings up in a timely manner. Unfortunately, with limited volunteers and resources, we won't be producing a live stream at this time.

You'll find last week's recording and offering video below.
