Understanding the fundamentals of entrepreneurship, business, and money are valuable skills for any mature adult to have but when should children start to learn these principles? How can our educational system open the eyes of youth to see opportunities and unlock the entrepreneur within, willing to take risks and grow through the challenges?

Join us on Tuesday, March 19 to hear an incredible story of entrepreneurship beginning at age four! Ms. Endura Govan, together with her son, developed curriculum and taught classes from kindergarten through high school and beyond in a learning style that enabled them to easily grasp these economic principles. They went on to organize programs for middle school youth at Wall Street Conferences! Furthering her social impact work, she consults with faith leaders to create value-add initiatives and a foundation to promote health and wellness among populations susceptible to Chronic disease.

Sponsored by the International Association for Peace and Economic Development of Universal Peace Federation
