

Peace Road 2015 in Russia

Jin Hwa Chong
July 23, 2015

FFWPU Russia: On July 23, in St. Petersburg, the second largest city in Russia held their 21-day Peace Road launching. Russia participants will cross the country from St. Petersburg to Vladivostok for 21 days and at each city, they will have participants joining for a short part of Peace Road. The purpose of Peace Road in Russia is to transcend racism and religion among the people in Russia and to solve conflict between each other and make a peaceful Russia. Also during the Peace Road tour, they will film a documentary called “Hospitable Russia.” The road leading to Peace”

For this launching, Hon Petr Kazansky, an Ambassador for Peace, active in sports organizations with the Russian government, came and wished good luck to the participants and the drivers. He also made a proposal for cooperation.

The next day, July 24, the Peace Road team arrived in the Kremlin and Christ the Saviour Cathedral, Moscow, at 5:00 a.m. with seven cars and took a group photograph in front of the cathedral. Afterward, at 8 a.m., they played a soccer game near the Peace Embassy, under the theme “Play Football Make Peace” for teamwork and friendship. The Peace Road drivers’ team took first place out of 4 teams. At 4:30 pm a bicycle tour took place in a beautiful park near Moscow Peace Embassy.

The closer, which started at 6:30 p.m., included a press conference explaining the meaning of Peace Road.