On February 8th, 2017, we had a talk about Swami Dayananda Saraswati, given by Deepti Galani. She graduated in India in Economics and English Literature, arrived in Barcelona in 1991 and since then has taken part in several courses in private companies, governmental and non-governmental institutions to expand the learning acquired in her country.

She currently works as an intercultural trainer and consultant, and specializes in business protocol in India. She also conducts Indian cultural tours in Barcelona, teaches Vedic maths, Hindi and Indian culture in general, and has been involved in workshops dealing with gender issues in her country.

Swami Dayananda Saraswati, a prominent Hindu religious leader and Vedic scholar, was the first Indian to express his right to freedom from India by the British government in 1876. A highly intelligent and rational personality was far ahead of his time. He was a firm believer in the Vedic tradition and denounced the worship of idols and rituals that were wide spread during his time. A scholar in the Vedic and Sanskrit tradition aspired to separate the Indians from meaningless rituals and guided them to true Vedic ideologies.

On March 8th, 2017, we had a talk about the Sufism of Mawiana Rumi, a mystique of listening, given by Halil Barcena, an Islamologist, a specialist in Sufimysticism.

Mawlânâ Rûmî, (1207-1273) Sufi poet and sage, constitutes one of the tops of spirituality not already Islamic but universal. Inspiring the Sufi school of the whirling dervishes known for their circular dance, Rûmî is the author of a vast poetic work in the Persian language that derives from the joy of the unitive experience with God. Through the centuries, it has had a significant influence in Persian, Urdu and Turkish literature; the importance of Rumi transcends the purely national and ethnic. His words contain a deep and inspiring spirituality.

Halil Barcena, (Santander, 1962) is an Islamologist, a specialist in Sufimysticism. He has studied Islamic and Arabic philology in different Arab countries. Formed in Turkish musicology in Istanbul, he is an interpreter of Ney (Suficane flute). He has published Sufis Pearls. Knowledge and taste of Mevlânâ Rûmî (2015). In addition, he is co-author, with Marià Corbi, of Jesus of Nazareth, the myth and the wise (2010). His latest book, Historias de Nasrudín (2015), won the Serra d'Or Critical Prize for Children's Literature, 2016.
