George "Terry" Walton's life journey is a remarkable tapestry of dedication and service. Born on May 3, 1950, to Robert and Mary E. Walton in Oklahoma City, OK, Terry was the middle child of three and grew up with two sisters, Felice and Shelia.

In 1971, Terry embarked on a transformative path when he joined the Unification Church in New York after being witnessed to by his oldest sister, Felice Walton Hart, who already joined the movement. His unwavering commitment led him to serve in diverse roles across the country, from fundraising and witnessing, to pioneering and lecturing the Divine Principle.

On July 1, 1982, in a historic ceremony at Madison Square Garden in New York City, Terry and his wife, Kazuko, were matched and blessed by Rev. Sun Myung Moon and Dr. Hak Ja Han Moon. Their enduring love story spanned a beautiful 41 years.

In 1990, Terry, Kazuko, and their children embarked on a brave mission to the former Soviet Union, where they served as underground missionaries and pioneers during a time when the region was shrouded by the "Iron Curtain." Later, their journey took them to Mongolia and Siberia, where they shared the Divine Principle and united over 150 couples through the Blessing.

Returning to the United States, Terry and his family lived in Queens, NY, Kingston, NY, and later Albany, NY. Terry was then assigned as a national messiah to Suriname, South America, where he spent a year with his family fostering their connection with diverse communities.

Upon a request from True Parents, Terry, alongside Kazuko and their daughter, Julia, relocated to Las Vegas in 2006. There, he began working as an account specialist at the then Emperor Place. In 2010, they returned briefly to New York but found their way back to Las Vegas in 2013 after the passing of Rev. Moon.

In Las Vegas, Terry dedicated himself to serving the community and later started working for FEMA (Federal Emergency Management Agency). His responsibilities took him across the United States and beyond, providing assistance to families affected by various emergency situations.

In October 2020, Terry and Kazuko were recognized as a "CheonBo couple" of Heavenly USA, receiving the grace of their beloved True Parents.

Terry's spirit of service remained steadfast, and in August 2023, FEMA called upon him once more. This time, he was asked to go to Guam to support FEMA staff and team members on the island. Terry always answered the call to serve others. Terry, along with his supervisor, Anastasia, and other colleagues, enjoyed a shared dinner on the evening of October 7, 2023 (October 6, US time).

Tragically, on the morning of Saturday, October 8 (October 7, US time), Terry's supervisor noticed that he hadn't answered his phone, which was uncharacteristic of him. Concerned, she conducted a wellness check at his hotel and discovered Terry peacefully resting in his hotel room. The EMS responders confirmed that Terry had peacefully transitioned.

George "Terry" Walton's life was a testament to selfless dedication, love, and service, leaving an indelible mark on all he encountered. Terry is survived by his wife, Kazuko Walton; his son, Takamasa Walton; and his daughter, Julia Walton.

George (aka Terry) Walton was a loving husband, father and dear friend to many people.

In 1971, Terry embarked on a transformative path when he joined the Unification Church in New York after been witnessed to by his oldest sister Felice Hart who joined earlier. His unwavering commitment led him to serve in diverse roles, from fundraising to witnessing, pioneering, and as a Divine Principle Lecturer, traveling extensively across the United States.

George "Terry" Walton's life was a testament to selfless dedication, love, and service, leaving an indelible mark on all he encountered.

He suddenly died while he was working overseas in Guam. The cause of death is still unknown since his family will still need go and claim his body. When the authorities found him he was fully clothed and lying down, we believe he left this earth quickly without much pain.

he must of knew his time was coming soon, he made sure to call his family everyday and to tell them "i love you" after ending each call. His last conversation was with his daughter, Julia she called him right before he passed to get some advice and last words to her were "i love you" this is a difficult time for the family since he was the anchor, support, and kept the peace between the family.

he was such a nice, friendly person and that could make friends with all walks of life(even with people with different religions & views). He was a very vivacious person, when he used to sing he really belted his voice, felt like he was trying to shake the earth, even if he was tone deaf. He was easy to talk to, had a sweet demeanor (he got along with coworkers which isnt always easy to do)

He tried the best for his family making sure they were taking care of even though he was gone most of the time for work. when he was home he spent all this time with his wife and daughter taking them on many road trips, dinner, shopping and staycations. One his favorite pastime was staying at home and watching movies with his family & playing with his daughters fur babies like they were his own grandkids. You know a person is good especially how they treat animals

he was also very devoted to his faith and to God
The family is having a difficult time especially since he passed overseas and there are many complications just to bring him back.

this fundraiser will support with the memorial, burial service, seonghwa ceremony, and some living expenses to help them get back on their feet

thank you everyone for your support and prayers during this difficult time
George "Terry" Walton is survived by his wife Kazuko Walton, his son Takamasa Walton and daughter Julia Walton.
