

Update for Peace Stars - A not-for-profit global music competition

Laurence Baer
July 17, 2024

Dear Friends of Peace,

I am sending out this update to let each of you know the status of Peace Stars, a not-for-profit global music competition which we are launching, and to ask for your assistance in helping us to achieve our very modest goal for 2024. The idea behind Peace Stars is to shine a light on the 110+ violent conflicts still raging in this world, through songs, co-written and co-performed by musicians on the opposite sides of one of those conflicts. For the winning entries, we will create professional 15 minute videos featuring the song, the artists, and background on the conflict. All additional funds will be used to promote those videos across the internet to achieve maximum exposure.

My partner Russ Allen and I are launching Peace Stars on a strictly pro-bono basis. Neither of us are receiving any fees from this project. All donations are going directly into our duly registered Maryland 501(c)3, 101 Education Institute, and will be used strictly to develop the contest and promote the winning videos.

Our original plan was to launch Peace Stars in 2024, requiring that each entrant team submit their own video.

However, based on my zoom meeting with one of our advisors, Michal Shahaf, CEO of Koolalum, I was persuaded to change our strategy. I deeply respect Michal, who founded a very successful online marketing company before launching Koolalum. She argued that if we leave the production of videos to the contestants, we will not get good enough quality to impact the global audience we are targeting. Instead, she felt that we need to take that responsibility inhouse, to ensure a high consistent quality of video production that will maximize our reach online. Michal suggested that we create a pilot video in 2024 and then use that to raise the funds for a 2025 launch. For our pilot, she pointed out that we can control the project by selecting the conflict and the musicians ourselves and then producing the video to demonstrate the product we will be creating for each of the winning entries.

We have set up a GoFundMe site, and we are also now a vetted and approved charity for both Paypal and Venmo. Here are those three sites:

Here is our Go Fund Me fundraising site.

Here is our Paypal Giving Fund approved site

Here is our Venmo approved charity site

In my efforts to find a suitable site and qualified musicians for our pilot project, I was introduced to Kyle Abts, who has also joined our advisory board. He serves as the Director for I Stand With Others, and has been working for decades in Nigeria in multiple capacities. Kyle suggested that we address a long-running conflict between Christian and Islamic groups in Central Nigeria, which is a real and serious conflict, but not one that is so dangerous as to put our team at risk.

One of Kyle's partners, Toda Kafang, is an experience professional in the music industry in Nigeria, and she identified two successful musicians whom she knew as an ideal team for our pilot project:

"Two females from the middle belt area; a Christian from Plateau State and a Muslim from Kaduna - respectively Ruby Gyang and Di'ja (born Hadiza Salma Blel). They are friends and are veterans of the Nigerian music scene. Neither are signed to any label (anymore) and wouldn't be restricted with songwriting and video ownership."

Di'ja - www.youtube.com/watch?v=p1_lbJOV8PQ

Ruby - www.youtube.com/watch?v=aa0ToMAodAY

We followed up and both Di'ja and Ruby are both enthusiastic about Peace Stars and about their collaboration, and they are currently working on creating their song.

I spent some time trying to find a videographer with whom we could work. The proposals that I received were way out of our range. However, finally, through another advisor, Dietmar Goetz, I was introduced to one of his associates in Germany, Gerrit Loewenberger, who submitted the following budget, which I accepted. Here is a link to some of Gerrit's work on Youtube.

www.youtube.com/playlist?list=PL_u4Nr2q7vaJcM2RpzqouR33AueGNmF2r

Here is Gerrit's detailed budget:

Pre-Production (1,800€)

Producer: 3 days at 600€/day = 1,800€

Production (27,800€)

Director: 4 days at 800€/day = 3,200€
Assistant Director: 4 days at 400€/day = 1,600€
Gaffer: 4 days at 350€/day = 1,400€
Director of Photography (DoP): 4 days at 700€/day = 2,800€
Sound Engineer: 4 days at 500€/day = 2,000€
On-site Producer: 4 days at 600€/day = 2,400€ (estimate)
Equipment: 4 days at 800€/day = 3,200€ (estimate)
Travel: 4 days at 1,200€/day = 4,800€ (estimate)
Local Transport: 800€ (estimate)
Accommodation: 5 days at 150€/day = 750€ (estimate)
Meals: 25 meals at 40€/meal = 1,000€ (estimate)
Insurance: 2,000€ (estimate)
Contingency for Issues: 3,000€ (estimate)

Post-Production (4,250€)

Editor: 5 days at 450€/day = 2,250€
Colorist: 2 days at 1,000€/day = 2,000€

Additional Costs (14,630€)

Music Licensing: 2,000€ (estimate)
Administrative Costs (10%): 3,641€
Profit Margin (10%): 3,641€
Unforeseen Expenses (10%): 3,641€

Total Costs: 47,480€

I have been trying to find some interest in Foundations focusing on Peace, but so far that has been disappointing. Given the timeline: we need to produce this film soon so that we can raise funds for next year's launch. I am reaching out to you in case you might be able to assist in some way.

I am attaching a letter suitable to be forwarded to those in your networks inviting them to contribute to our tax exempt charity.

For those of you who have media platforms, perhaps you could create an article or posting about this project and send it out to your audience. If you would like my assistance in tailoring an article to meet your specifications, please let me know those details and I'll turn it around quickly.

If any of you know someone or some organization whom you feel might have an interest to serve as a sponsor, I hope you will reach out to them, and then let me know how I can be of assistance in addressing any concerns they might have. While the control of Peace Stars is absolutely not for sale, I am very delighted to give generous acknowledgement for all financial assistance and support.

Alternatively, if you or any of your contacts prefer to make an anonymous contribution, that too is absolutely welcomed. I am also very interested in any and all other suggestions you may have about how we might raise this modest budget in a timely manner, as well as suggestions for funding the competition going forward.

Thank you all, from the bottom of my heart, for your participation in this project. We will absolutely succeed.

Very sincerely,

Laurence Baer

Dear Friends of Peace:

My name is Laurence Baer, and I am the CEO of an innovative project entitled Peace Stars. Our vision is to establish an annual worldwide music competition in which each entry must be a song of peace and hope, written and performed by at least two artists who are on opposite sides of an important conflict. By their cooperation and through their music they will show a way to go beyond the historic conflicts. Each winning entry will be the subject of an approximately 15-minute video which will highlight not just the song, but also background on the musicians themselves, on their relationship, and on the historic conflict in which they are living.

My partner, Russ Allen, and I are launching this on a pro-bono basis. All funds will go through our 501-C-3 Charitable Foundation 101 Education Institute which is incorporated in Maryland, USA.

I have been concerned about peace and international cooperation for all my adult life. I helped launch an economic institute in 1984 as the Executive Assistant to Robert B. Anderson, former US Secretary of the Treasury (Eisenhower Administration). I served in that capacity with all three chairmen. Sen. Eugene McCarthy served as an interim Chairman followed by Sir Robert Muldoon, former Prime Minister of New Zealand.

Our original plan was to launch the contest this year, and ask the entrants to submit their own videos. However, one of our advisors, Michal Shahaf of Tel Aviv, who is the CEO of Koolalum and also the Founder of a very successful online marketing company strongly advised us against that plan. Michal argued that unless we handled the videography ourselves, the quality would be very poor and the resulting videos would not achieve the impact we are seeking to make a global difference towards peace. Her alternative proposal was that we should pick an existing conflict which did not present too much difficulty in which to operate, and also pick two musicians, and then create a pilot video with those two musicians. Once we had a pilot, an example, that potential sponsors could see and experience, it would be much easier to generate the enthusiasm and financial support needed to launch a full competition. A tangible example is exponentially more effective than a mere concept. With a completed pilot in hand, we could then raise funds for a 2025 launch.

We took her advice and, through another advisor, Kyle Abts, Director, I Stand With Others, we selected two talented ladies in Nigeria for our pilot project. Kyle wrote:

I have been in touch with several friends who work with creatives, especially in music. One great suggestion that was offered was for two females from the middle belt area; a Christian from Plateau State and a Muslim from Kaduna - respectively Ruby Gyang and Di'ja (born Hadiza Salma Blel). They are friends and are veterans of the Nigerian music scene. Neither are signed to any label (anymore) and wouldn't be restricted with songwriting and video ownership.

Di'ja — https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=p1_lbJOV8PQ

Ruby — <https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=aa0ToMAodAY>

We followed up and both Di'ja and Ruby, and they are both on board, actively working now to create their song of peace and hope together.

Toda Kafang is an experienced producer who has worked in the music industry in Nigeria, and is a partner of Kyle Abts in his organization "I Stand With Others". Toda is assisting us in this project and it was she who recruited Di'ja and Ruby.

I reached out to several videographers to create this pilot, but the initial proposals I received were way too high. Finally, through yet another of our advisors, Dietmar Goetz, a former German Senator in the European Parliament, I found a German-based videographer, Gerrit Loewenberger who came back to me with what I felt was a reasonable proposal for the pilot. We discussed it, and I agreed to accept his proposal, subject to successfully raising the funds.

Here is a link to some of his work on YouTube:

https://www.youtube.com/playlist?list=PL_u4Nr2q7vaJcm2RpzqouR33AueGNmF2r

Here is his detailed budget:

Pre-Production (1,800€)

- Producer: 3 days at 600€/day = 1,800€

Production (27,800€)

- Director: 4 days at 800€/day = 3,200€
- Assistant Director: 4 days at 400€/day = 1,600€
- Gaffer: 4 days at 350€/day = 1,400€

Total Costs: 47,480€

I am now actively working to raise these funds ASAP, so that I can engage Mr. Loewenberger and get our 15-minute pilot completed, and then use that pilot video to raise a much more substantial fund to launch the competition next year.

I would be so profoundly grateful for any support and or guidance you can offer to help me achieve this initial goal.

Here is our Go Fund Me fundraising site, which is directly linked to our 501-C-3 bank account. Go Fund Me will immediately issue an official receipt for tax purposes on all donations. Of course, if donors would prefer to donate directly into the Charity's bank account, that is perfectly fine and it will save the service fees paid to Go Fund Me.

We are also a fully vetted and approved charity on both Paypal's and Venmo's giving funds.

Peace Stars is a visionary and important step to bridging these conflicts and barriers, not just by a few, but sharing those bridges in a way that powerfully resonates on the deepest levels with the entire world.

Peace Stars' programs will center around an annual music competition, featuring Music Videos of songs written and performed by artists from both sides of an important conflict, which promote peace, reconciliation and healing.

Entries will be judged based on the following criteria, listed in order of their importance.

Judges will be selected from both the realms of music and videos, as well as from the realms of peace building and healing.

Cash and other prizes will be awarded to the winners

Winners and other selected entries, as well as the project in general, will be actively promoted through multiple online channels to achieve maximum visibility and recognition on the internet and through other non-web platforms.

Winners will be featured, wherever possible, in interviews or other placements to provide visibility and career opportunities for the artists.

Support & Get Involved

This project is currently a start up, so we are seeking foundational sponsors and start up donations. The project will grow only to the extent that funds become available. We will not operate through debt.

All funds raised will go directly to project costs including operations and accounting. None of the managers or board members will receive financial compensation.

Donations to be solicited will include:

- In-kind services
- Major sponsorships
- General donations to the project
- Crowd funding campaigns
- Grants

Donate Now

Prior to each annual contest, a budget for that year will be established based on available and conservatively projected resources. The budget will be carefully monitored and followed, under the administrative oversight of an independent CPA.

We will produce a pilot video and song in 2024, and our goal is to launch the first competition in early 2025.

Once we select our winning entrees, our focus will be to achieve maximum global visibility for those winning artists and their music videos.

Peace Stars is launching its annual competition which will inspire and broadly promote unique and timely music focusing on conflict resolution, healing, and peace. In this process it will showcase the amazing hearts, creativity, and talents of artists from both sides of important conflicts, who come together to create something beautiful in the name of peace.

The artists themselves will have the opportunity to win cash prizes and other prizes, and importantly, they will have the opportunity to gain significant visibility and recognition as their music videos are aggressively promoted and shared among the global internet platforms. Peace is of tantamount interest to all people of the world. The music which will emerge through Peace Stars will similarly be of interest to all people of the world.

The impact of this music will not stop with the artists themselves. This world desperately seeks and desperately needs authentic and inspirational messages of peace. The very process by which two artists on opposite sides of a conflict combine their hearts and talents and vision to create music celebrating peace, will in of itself inspire many more to find common ground in a higher vision of peace. Music inspires culture, and culture inspires behavior. This music, and the artists who create it can truly make a major and desperately needed impact towards a peaceful, harmonious, and loving world.

This project is an act of love on the part of the organizers and the distinguished advisors, all of whom are participating as volunteers.

All funds raised will go to provide prize money to the artists, to promote the winning videos across the internet, and a very small amount will cover the costs for accounting, compliance, and web hosting.
