

Wongu Peace and Happiness University

Jason Cho
May 4, 2012

After a year of painstaking effort and preparation, a new school of Oriental Medicine, Wongu Peace and Happiness University (WPHU), will be opening in Las Vegas, NV.

This will be the first school of Oriental Medicine in Nevada. After several meetings with the State of Nevada Board of Oriental Medicine, WPHU was finally approved by the Board members unanimously on April 18, 2012, and is now entering the homestretch.

True Father has continuously shown great interest for this project and has purchased a facility for the school. True Father was residing in Las Vegas when the school was approved and was extremely happy to hear that the school has been approved unanimously.

WPHU will offer a 4 year program where students will learn Western Medicine, acupuncture, and herbal medicine. The school will run on a quarter system, and tuition is expected to cost approximately $15,000/year (4 quarters).

Applicants must have Bachelor's degree prior to applying to the school. Upon completion of the program, students will graduate with a Master's degree in Oriental Medicine and will be able to sit for the Nevada licensure exam.

WPHU is making progress to hire the best quality faculty and is expected to open October 1, 2012.

We pray for True Parents' blessings and love upon your family.

Jung Soon Cho, CEO

1. Governing Philosophy and Motto: Three Types of Love

Love for God (愛天)

Love for Humanity (愛人)

Love for the Nation (愛國)

2. Outline of Purpose and Rationale

The pursuit of health and happiness through the development of Oriental medicine

Wongu University seeks to promote the living proof of the effectiveness of Oriental medicine as observed through the millennia.

Western medicine with emphasis on holistic care can "upgrade" itself through its convergence with Oriental medicine.

Become a feeder of renowned professionals in Oriental medicine in the United States to the wider medical community

Based on the firm belief that the United States and the rest of the world will increasingly demand experts in Oriental medicine.

Training and recruitment of English-speaking doctors is best suited in the United States.

Las Vegas as a center of learning opportunity

Las Vegas hosts world-class exhibitions and conferences for medical professionals on a yearly basis. It provides a myriad of hotel and convention center choices for future gatherings with a convenient distance to the airport. Easy access to such resources qualifies this city as a premier choice.

3. School Facilities

Location: 8610, 8620 & 8630 South Eastern Avenue, Las Vegas, NV 89123.

Size: 8610 S Eastern Ave: 5,380 sq. ft.

8620 S Eastern Ave: 7,140 sq. ft.

8630 S Eastern Ave: 5,535 sq. ft.

Total: 64,905 sq. ft. including a parking lot with 63 parking spaces.

4. Academic Structure

1) Student Recruitment

Master's Degree program in Oriental Medicine: Approximately 20 ~ 40 students in total for Year 1, 2, 3, and 4.

2) Criteria for Admissions

Master's Degree program in Oriental Medicine:

Minimum of a four-year bachelor's degree from an accredited institution.

If the prerequisite educational requirement was earned at an approved foreign institution, the prospective student's official transcript will be evaluated by a credential evaluation agency.

International students from a non-English-speaking country must successfully submit TOEFL (PBT) score above 500.

5. Curriculum Guidance

1) Master's Degree program in Oriental Medicine:

- a. Basic Science: 42 Credits (420 Didactic Hours)
 - b. Western Medicine: 47 Credits (470 Didactic Hours)
 - c. Oriental Medicine: 51 Credits (510 Didactic Hours)
 - d. Acupuncture: 44 Credits (440 Didactic Hours)
 - e. Herbal Medicine: 52 Credits (520 Didactic Hours)
 - f. Elective Courses: 15 Credits (150 Didactic Hours)
 - g. Clinical Internship: 49 Credits (960 Didactic Hours)
- Total: 3,470 Hours [Didactic Hours: 2,510 Hours and Clinical Training: 960 Hours]

Contact Information:

Wongu Peace and Happiness University (Graduate School of Oriental Medicine)
Jason Cho, Coordinator
8620 S Eastern Ave, Ste #5
Las Vegas, NV 89123