

CARP Las Vegas held 2nd Divine Principle Lecture Competition of the semester

Ken Doo
April 15, 2017

CARP Las Vegas held their 2nd Divine Principle Lecture Competition of the semester on April 15th.

As the students prepared to give lectures, many of them shared that they realized there was so much more to understand than they thought.

K. Neuhaus shared that after lecturing, he realized he thought he understood much of the content but discovered there was much more depth to the Principle than he knew.

Rev. Compton and Mr. Akira Watanabe gave constructive feedback, and encouraged the participants that through practice, they can come to understand the Principle more.

The participants were humbled and were eager to continue studying.

