Ms Suzuki joined CARP while at Tsuda University and, after completing her Tokyo CARP mission, she was active as a welfare, education and WakuWaku trainer with the job title of Middle East Youth Envoy for an NGO in Turkey. She has been very successful in introducing WakuWaku to Turkish Muslims through their local mosque.

What is WakuWaku?

This is a new and very successful education project (based on DP) from Tokyo. As you know, it is very difficult to witness in Japan because of constant mass-media attacks, but through this project, witnessing effort and results have increased dramatically.

Many national leaders have visited Tokyo to learn WakuWaku education and training, and are starting the programme in their own countries.

They have made it one of the official youth education programmes and now our 3rd Generation have the best witnessing results. Members are finding their true selves and want to love people.

So it is not simply a witnessing tool, it is much more than that.

This summer, 10 people attended WakuWaku training as part of the "Japan CARP Experience" project – six 2nd Gens and four 1st Gens attended. Here are extracts from their testimonies:

The training activities of the teaching are helpful in order to solve many kinds of challenges, problems and situations of 1st, 2nd generations and all others.
