According to the UN Sustainable Development Goal #5 to "Achieve gender equality and empower all women and girls", women exceed men in education yet struggle in other areas, such as career and finances. GDP calculations ignore the value of love and domestic service by mothers, while children are often seen as obstacles. Ideas that devalue families and separate sex from love and childrearing have led to plummeting birthrates around the world.

Is human extinction next or are we ready to extol the unique ability of women to become mothers? Let us join the panel of Carolyn Handschin-Moser, director of the UN Geneva office for Women's Federation for World Peace (WFWP) International, Dr. Grace Selover, advocate for emerging women's leadership and service, and theology lecturer Dr. Yeunhee Chang, to elevate motherhood and the work of the Mother of Peace, Dr. Hak Ja Han Moon.
