

This Week in History: September 7

Seog Byung Kim
September 6, 2016

True Mother's Address at the United Nations Headquarters (September 7, 1993, New York City)

True Mother, in response to an invitation, delivered the speech, "God, Women and World Peace" on September 7, 1993, in the conference room of ECOSOC, the Economic and Social Council in the United Nations Headquarters, New York. Around 600 people including 103 UN delegates, 160 UN staff members and leaders from various fields came to listen to True Mother's speech. Through the introduction by Mr. Stoyan Ganev (1955–2013), then president of the United Nations General Assembly, True Mother stood onstage and conveyed a message of love and peace based on God's providence. She also spoke of the peaceful role the UN was to undertake. (Materials provided by the FFWPU History Compilation Committee)

