Report by Mr. Fumi

Hello to all the foodies around the world who serve their sincerity day and night.

Today at 10:20 am, I went to see my true mother with Funshinde, Funshinko, Funshintetsu, Funroi, and other leaders. When we entered the hearing room, our true mother was already sitting and waiting for us. No words can express how sorry and how long I felt that time I waited with my eyes closed. When the meeting began, the true mother spoke about what she needed. In the detention center there is a system where you can offer food, but because the items are very limited, there is no shortage of food, I am very sorry.

True mother said she was in very bad shape and took a lot of Tylenol. Not a problem in the short term, but long term it's not good for the liver. Also, when I asked the true mother what was most uncomfortable on her body, she said that her hands and feet would go numb and body aches because the environment was very moist and cold. Even when I was in Tenshongu, I was sweating to the point of changing clothes many times at night, but I said that the hardest part is that the environment in the detention center is very moist. True mother had an irregular condition for about 10 years ago, endured a lot of unstable periods, and this time she underwent surgery. He was put into a detention center when he had to rest after surgery, and now he's in the same situation as before surgery.

In spite of it all, there was power in the voice of a true mother today, and I was so grateful. True mothers don't often say that it's hard because the life they've always endured is seeping on their bodies. I don't think I've heard one of those words in 40 years. That's why I said that I shouldn't, I always want people to express their hard times, but I don't think such words are easily spoken because I have lived a life of gratitude without complaining or complaining.

Looking back, the life of a true mother has been a life of struggles from a young age.

People have previously been told about when Little Angels was founded, and that era has been described as "the time when we used to break and divide beans." Wars and poverty and endured a very bad life in the deepest parts of South America and Africa with my true father. Gave national lectures at universities to fight communism, and even when I went to China, testified to Heavenly Father in the midst of threats. In a really harsh day of touring the whole country in a day, without even taking off his shoes properly, the true mother who was declared as Messiah and Reigner Lord through more than 180 lectures around the world.

14 children delivered and survived 4 C-sections all in one body. Walked and served with you every moment through the harsh life of a true father that even a young person can bear all these things.

After the consecration of the True Father, Kogen-setsu was declared single-handedly, and the three-year mausoleum for children to fulfill, the return of seven countries and seven religious groups, and the future generations, the True Mother, who has advanced uninterruptedly for the dream of Heavenly Father and Mother. A true mother's life was a life of endurance, forged by hardships, so she endured even in a detention center environment, saying, "The truth will surely come out." The true Father always said that the heavenly providence is always a provision that takes away and takes back. When they enter Danbury, their true father sees the victory beyond Danbury, and their true mother sees the victory that lies beyond the cloud. And a true mother wants us to act and move forward for the sake of heaven, for providence in tearful hours.

The way of God is the only word. ""The final problem is not knowledge or class, but love the environment that heaven has given, and the integrity of time." Behold . I had nothing to be proud of. But because you loyalty when your people couldn't be loyal, and you loyal in an unloyal environment, did you appear before your people as an indicator of loyalty? "Though we are immature, may we become children who move forward as indicators of loyalty, united in absolute faith during the most difficult times.

The communion of the true mother is in the detention center, but the true mother is with us, is with this nation, and is with the world. At the young age of 17, a true mother promised not to leave any more history of decline for future generations. Let's move forward with strength as hands and feet of true fathers, so that the true mother can keep her promise. Finishing my brief reporting with earnest hope that our Heavenly Father will protect our true mother's health and peace. Thank you.
