Brothers and sisters,

Last night I had a dream that I was outside the detention center where our mother is being held. They were thousands and thousands of people waiting for mother to be released. Most of the people were from Christian churches. There were so many thousands of people that I couldn't push my way to the front and I was so happy to be denied access to the front. Mother came out, even though I couldn't see her, the crowd erupted in a big celebration. I woke up with a smile on my face.

Many of you remember when True Father was released from Danbury we had a big welcoming banquet in Washington DC which had Joseph Lowery and Gerry Falwell, black-and-white, right and left to greet him. I hope that when True Mother is released, we can have a similar welcome for her.

God Bless,

Kevin and Masako Thompson
