CARP's 2021-2022 annual report is now available, and the results are impressive. Nationwide, CARP's campus presence increased by 29.4 percent in just a year - a great achievement aligned with True Mother's goal of engaging more young people to revive the faith of America.

"As we emerged from the pandemic this year, CARP is stronger than ever," said Jinil Fleischman, CARP national president, in the report's featured message. "Our student leadership has grown in number and in passion for CARP's mission. We are so grateful for the vision set forth for CARP by our founders, Rev. Dr. Sun Myung Moon and Dr. Hak Ja Han Moon. They believed that young people must live for God and for the sake of others in order to create a peaceful world."

New ideas and strategies have been implemented under Fleischman's leadership, including introducing CARP and tapping new membership at campus fairs. With more chapters registered or in development on campuses - jumping from 34 to 44 - CARP's values of faith, family, and peace are reaching more students than ever before.

"Education is necessary in order to save America and raise up second and third generations," said True Mother during a trip to Las Vegas in April. "So with confidence, we need to show that we have the power so that people can follow heaven's providence. One way or another, America must help the world providence by becoming a self-reliant America by increasing membership. It is our responsibility to educate and nurture the second generation so that they can contribute to the providence."

The CARP report breaks down national and local efforts to establish more chapters, expand and enhance education programs and activities, and how these methods have led to membership growth. CARP now has a presence in 22 states across the country, with half of its chapters on West Coast campuses. Chapters consist of two and four-year colleges that are public and private, as well as CARP "hubs" that involve multiple chapters in a designated location, such as the Bay Area and DMV (DC-Maryland-Virginia).

The report also showcases student involvement in CARP nationwide, with some 220 CARP leaders and more than 250 members. CARP leaders said powerful retreats, chapter visits, and national training and team calls have all aided the immense progress. Each CARP chapter, which hosts retreats that vary from one day to three weeks, features a Divine Principle study component. Throughout the 2021-22 academic year, there were more than 25 retreats held across the nation.

"I learned to look for God in new ways," said one retreat participant from CARP DMV. "I see how I need to improve myself first before creating a family and practicing a loving relationship. From the trip, I feel like I know how to actually practice what I learned."

Through conferences, social media, various campaigns, and more, CARP's "campus impact events" have brought greater awareness to topics related to its core values. Programs and projects, like the launch of "The Tribe Talk" podcast series by CARP Las Vegas, have addressed common matters that students face, including self-worth and building healthy relationships. Community service projects have been instrumental to CARP's public outreach as well, bringing its principles and vision to life.

"I wanted to gain a stronger sense of identity as national CARP, and I think I got exactly that," said a CARP member from the East Coast, who participated in the 2022 national "Momentum" retreat held in late July. "It's exciting to think we're all together investing and fighting for the same goals across the country."

CARP USA aims to have 1,200 chapters nationwide and 30,000 members by 2027. A delegation of 120 student leaders will also head to Korea by summer 2023.

2021-2022 ANNUAL REPORT

MESSAGE FROM THE PRESIDENT

As we emerged from the pandemic this year, the Collegiate Association for the Research of Principles (CARP) is stronger than ever. We've increased in chapters, from 34 to 44. And our student leadership has grown in number and in passion for CARP's mission!

We are so grateful for the vision set forth for CARP by our founders, Rev. Dr. Sun Myung Moon and Dr. Hak Ja Han Moon. They believed that young people must live for God and for the sake of others in order to create a peaceful world. CARP is striving to encourage students to follow those ideals according to our Core Principles: God, Family, and Peace. You can find out what our students are up to by checking our website: carplife.org.

We are so grateful to those who have offered their time, donations, and heart in order for CARP to succeed. If you feel called, please give at: carplife.org/donate. Let's work together and help CARP continue to thrive in the years to come!

Jinil Fleischman
National CARP President

CHAPTERS ON THE MAP

Currently, CARP chapters exist in the following states: Arizona, California, Colorado, Connecticut, Florida, Georgia, Hawaii, Illinois, Indiana, Maryland, Massachusetts, Minnesota, Nevada, New Jersey, New York, Oklahoma, Oregon, Pennsylvania, Texas, Utah, Virginia, & Washington.

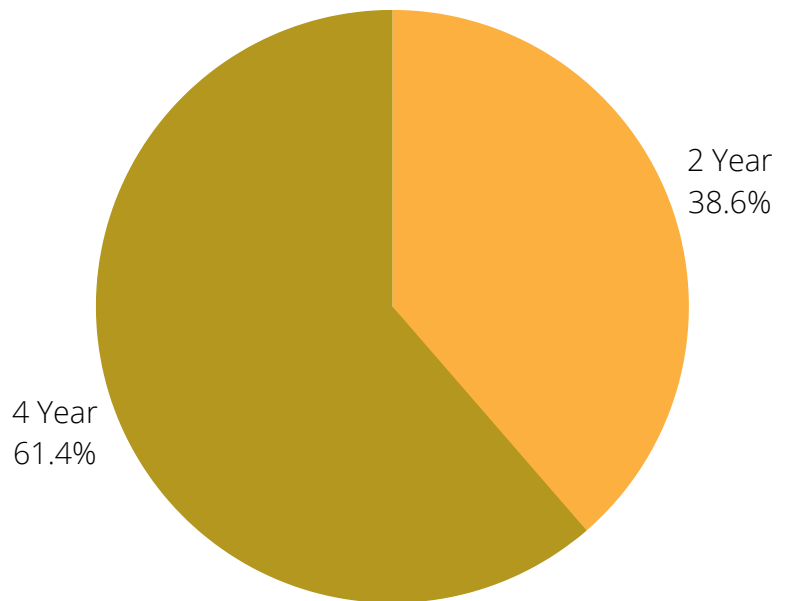

REGISTERED & DEVELOPING CHAPTERS

Of the 44 chapters, 25 are registered on their campus and 19 are developing.

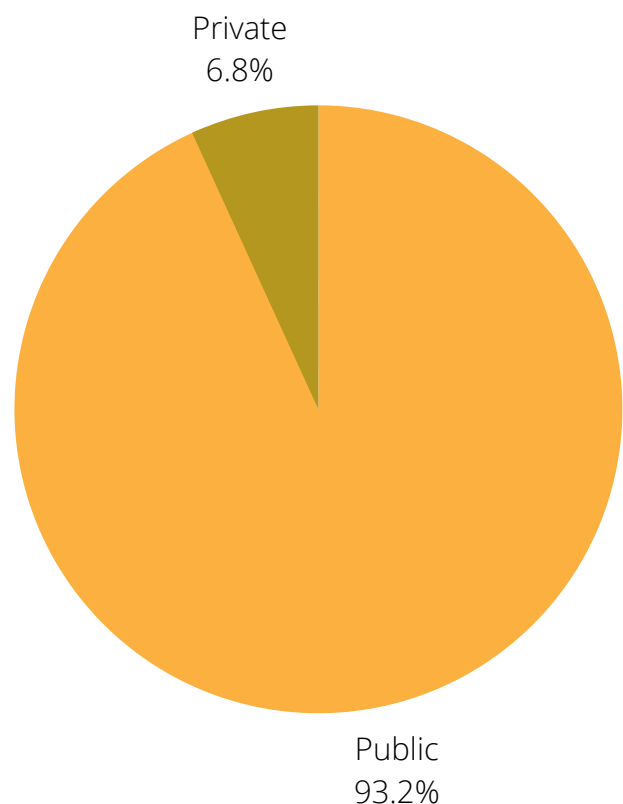

TWO YEAR VS FOUR YEAR COLLEGES

Of the 44 chapters, 27 are on four-year colleges and 17 are on two-year colleges.

PUBLIC VS PRIVATE COLLEGES

Of the 44 chapters, 41 are on public colleges and 3 are on private colleges.

HUBS

CARP hubs consist of multiple chapters in a designated location. Each chapter within the hub may have unique activities, while the hub typically hosts bigger activities for all their chapters. Currently, there are six hubs: Bay Area, DC-Maryland-Virginia (DMV), Las Vegas, Los Angeles, New Jersey, and Texas.

PROGRAMS

A) NATIONAL

National CARP hosts in-person and online programs to connect and support the local chapters. We also produce many resources to help the chapters grow in their local activities.

LOCAL DIRECTORS' RETREAT

In April 2022, CARP local directors gathered at Estes Park, Colorado to get clear on CARP's mission, vision, core values, and organizational structure. While this was happening, CARP's partner organization Generation Peace Academy (GPA) simultaneously held a retreat in the same location. The majority of CARP's local directors and GPA's staff met together for the first time, making history for the two organizations.

WINTER MOMENTUM

In the summer of 2021, National CARP had a powerful Momentum retreat. The hope for this national gathering was to bring clarity for the CARP leaders right before heading into the semester.

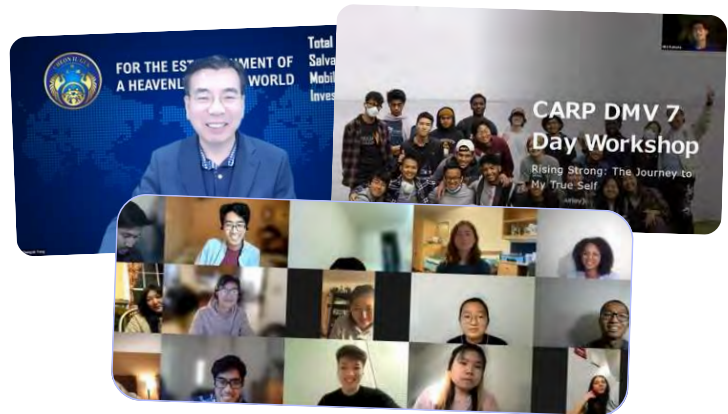

To bring that energy back, we hosted an online Winter Momentum retreat in the beginning of 2022. Students connected with other leaders throughout the states and shared their challenges and victories. They were also able to hear from Dr. Chung Sik Yong, Continental Director of CARP's parental organization Family Federation USA, and Mr. Naokimi Ushiroda, President of Family Federation USA.

LOCAL CHAPTER SUPPORT

National CARP Calls

Throughout the semesters, National CARP hosted a weekly call for all the chapter leaders. Each week varied from receiving guidance, hearing structural or organizational updates, sharing reports of local chapter activities, and more.

Chapter Visits

Visiting local chapters have been key in supporting developing chapters more closely. Throughout the past year, National Chapter Support Coordinator Chungbom Katayama visited six chapters in Washington, Utah, Connecticut, Pennsylvania, Hawaii, and Minnesota.

President Jinil Fleischman also visited chapters this year in Chicago and Arizona.

Swag

During Momentum 2021 and for the 2021-2022 school year, all chapters received the "Haebiragi" sunflower t-shirts, designed by CARP Administrator Takayoshi Sugawara.

B) LOCAL

CARP thrives because of the local student initiatives. CARP's key local activities — such as weekly meetings, one-on-one studies, retreats, and more — have grown organically from many years of local development.

CARP MEETINGS

Many CARP chapters hold a weekly meeting to engage their new participants into CARP's core teaching and culture. CARP Talks have been a signature of CARP, but many chapters have taken up their own names such as Delve, Ignite, Ohana Talks, Thrive, Tribe Talks, and many more. They are typically hosted on a weekly or bi-weekly basis.

Having experienced hosting online events throughout the pandemic, chapters were quick to adapt when COVID-19 cases spiked or when emergency situations arose. Online events have always been a way for people to meet beyond location.

DIVINE PRINCIPLE STUDY SESSIONS

Students get to engage in CARP's core teaching, the Divine Principle, through a more personal, study session. Topics cover many areas such as the purpose of life, the identity of God, the state of the world, the trajectory of human history, and many more. These sessions have been when many students had personal breakthroughs and realizations about their own life.

RETREATS

Many chapters host retreats that can vary in length from one day to three weeks. The core of the retreats is to provide a space for participants to study the Divine Principle more deeply, and experience the culture that is created through its application. Experiencing these retreats have been pivotal for many of the participants to continue their involvement and growth with CARP.

"God can communicate with me through many ways, not just by directly speaking to me. I learned to look for God in new ways... I see how I need to improve myself first before creating a family and practicing a loving relationship. From the trip, I feel like I know how to actually practice what I learned."

- Rives Adam, sophomore at University of Maryland, CARP DMV

Throughout 2021 - 2022, there were over 25 retreats that were hosted across the nation. Some of them were co-hosted amongst chapters in their respective hub, or even beyond.

CAMPUS IMPACT EVENTS

CARP aims to impact the society by bringing awareness to topics related to our core values. This is done through different means such as conferences, social media, campaigns, and many more. This past year, these campus impact events and efforts have mainly occurred throughout the spring of 2022.

March 15th, 2022 & May 5th, 2022: CARP Berkeley focused on the topic "For the Peaceful Reunification of the Korean Peninsula." They held two events, one in March and another in May, to raise conversations on the benefits and necessity for the reunification of Korea through presentations by community and students leaders.

Spring 2022: Responding to the COVID-19 pandemic and Mother Moon's emphasis on the unlimited potential of the internet, CARP Las Vegas launched the Tribe Talk podcast series. Similar to their weekly discussion event, they covered various topics such as isolation, self-worth, and building authentic relationships by inviting guest speakers.

April 26th, 2022: CARP Dallas held a campus seminar titled "Love 101: Intro to Lasting Relationships," in collaboration with guest speaker Derrah Jackson from the Medical Institute for Sexual Health. His presentation demonstrated how optimal sexual health is produced when sex is kept in a committed marriage.

COMMUNITY SERVICE PROJECTS

Another way that CARP makes an impact is through service. Throughout the year, many chapters connected with their local organizations to find opportunities to serve their communities.

Nov. 22nd, 2021: CARP Westminster held a food bank fundraiser by collaborating with Ramen Mobile. Through their efforts, they raised $250 for the Utah Food Bank.

November 22, 2021: For Thanksgiving, CARP Bay Area worked together with many local churches and organizations to distribute boxes of food and Thanksgiving goods to families in the Oakland community.

February 26th, 2022: Later in February 2022, CARP Bay Area collaborated with Service for Peace and High Street Coalition to do a neighborhood trash cleanup and a garden beautification project.

April 22nd, 2022: On Earth Day, CARP Hawai'i supported local Oahu organizations to help pick up trash at Kailua Beach for the safety of the creatures and people.

April 23rd, 2022: CARP Bridgeport worked with the Ruby and Calvin Fletcher African American History Museum in Stratford, Connecticut to create flower beds and beautify the entrance of their museum.

LEADERSHIP TRAINING (ACTIONIZING / CENTER LIFE)

A few hubs also held an "actionizing" program to conclude their semester. These programs intend to create a space for continued education where participants can make practical steps toward the core principles and teachings that they have gained from their retreat. This has been done through continued education, practice in presenting the Divine Principle, outreaching, implementing spiritual practices, and many more. This past spring 2022 semester, hubs in the Bay Area, DMV, and Las Vegas held their own actionizing programs.

THANK YOU, JENNIFER!

National CARP is immensely grateful to former Communications Coordinator Jennifer Pierce. Her four and a half years of service have been monumental in expanding CARP America's online presence. In her time, she created CARP's social media accounts from the ground up and contributed greatly in developing a brand new website. She has created a legacy for CARP to continue to be shared to the world.

NEW STAFF: RYOTA

In the beginning of the new year, National CARP welcomed Ryota Naito to the team.

Ryota comes with five years of serving CARP Las Vegas, most prominently as a chapter leader and media director. During that time, he experienced the impact that sharing positive, meaningful content can have on the world. Ryota has a lot to offer to continue growing CARP's online presence as the new Communications Coordinator.

BOARD OF DIRECTORS

Our esteemed Board of Directors supports the organization and works diligently for its sustainability and longevity. Along with offering their personal expertise, 100% of the Board participates in giving to support the National CARP organization.

Our Board of Directors are:

1. Jinil Fleischman, President of National CARP
2. Chad Hoover, Chairman, Architect
3. Robert Beebe, EdD, Vice-Chairman, K-8 School Principal
4. Amy Cuhel-Schuckers, DMin, Treasurer, Higher Education, Grant Writing
5. Danso Sawamukai, Secretary, Telecommunications
6. Markus Karr, EdD, Entertainment Industry Executive
7. Leighton DeGoede, Software Engineering
8. Kaye Allen, Non-profit Legal
9. Kimisei Miyake, Accounting & Finance

FINANCIALS

FINANCIALS

For the 2021 calendar year, CARP's financials were as follows:

Total revenue

Unrestricted donations collected in 2021 were divided 50% to be used for the 2022 program expenses and 50% toward the national endowment.

Expenses

Program	$45K+
Admin	$158K+

Expected funding for administrative use was down 50% due to the pandemic, but we were still able to operate and keep a balanced budget. Program expenses were reduced from previous years due to limited in-person activities.

Endowment

Added funds

The purpose of the endowment is for the longevity and sustainability of the organization.

Despite our decreased budget, we could still contribute more than $37K to the endowment.

LAUNCHING INTO 2022 - 2023

MOMENTUM 2022

National CARP hosted their annual Momentum leadership retreat from July 25th to the 27th at Barrytown, New York. Momentum gathers CARP leaders from across the nation to connect to the national vision and with each other in preparation for the upcoming school year.

The retreat gathered leaders from at least 24 different states, 93 participants, and 16 CARP staff and local directors. A total of 109 participants and staff joined, making it the largest gathering for Momentum yet!

"I feel passionate about bringing the spirit and energy from CARP Momentum to my campus. The spirit here is so lively and beautiful and I would love to develop this kind of culture on my own campus."

- Tara McMahon, senior at Montclair University, CARP New Jersey

"I appreciate Momentum. I wanted to gain a stronger sense of identity as national CARP and I think I got exactly that. It's exciting to think we're all together investing and fighting for the same goals across the country."

- Toshio Barber, incoming freshmen at Montgomery College, CARP DMV

Dr. Chung Sik Yong, senior advisor to CARP and regional president of CARP's parent organization, Family Federation USA, visited last year's Momentum 2021 and shared goals for CARP to reach by 2027:

01. 1,200 CARP Chapters

We're dreaming big! Starting with 50 states, we hope to have 1,200 chapters within the decade.

02. 30,000 CARP Members

With those 1,200 chapters, we are aiming for 30,000 CARP members in the United States.

In Momentum 2022, Dr. Yong visited again and came with one additional challenge which CARP leaders have been working to make happen:

01. 120 Student Leaders to Korea by Summer 2023

In preparation for this, National CARP decided to get the ball rolling by declaring to have a national workshop of 40 people in Las Vegas.

We're inspired to imagine that something greater could be possible, but we can't do it alone: We need your help. If you have ideas or know someone who wants to get involved and help CARP expand to new states and new chapters, contact jinil@carplife.org.

Help us support our students in going big and make a larger impact this year with your donation.

CARP Chapters Tap New Members at Campus Fairs

CARP chapters nationwide have kicked off the new school year by participating in campus club fairs to connect and network with more students. Establishing new membership and developing more chapters are top goals of national CARP leaders.

"[Club fairs] have been a great opportunity to present CARP to many new students and generate more exposure," said one CARP organizer in Northern California. CARP Chabot College in the Bay Area reported there was stronger interest and a greater turnout of students looking to learn more about the campus movement – which creates programs, events, and activities that promote the principles of faith, family values, and peace, as well as the growth and support of young leaders. "Since this has been the first semester where almost all classes were in person ... there were even more sign-ups than those from the pandemic combined," said the local CARP organizer.

Other chapters like CARP Las Vegas, Los Angeles, and New Jersey presented their club materials at multiple fairs across campuses in their area. CARP Chicago had several new members help distribute information about the chapter to other students on campus, while CARP Westminster in Utah shared a table at their campus fair with an interfaith club.

"[This is] a great way to get the semester going," said a CARP Chicago member. "At each meeting, we get together and take part in icebreakers and make connections to prepare ourselves to hear topics based on the Divine Principle. We had amazing students come in and share their thoughts. There are also many elders who support [us], as well as our local community ... Meetings have been filled with lively discussions and laughter."

In Boston, the CARP chapter successfully held its first "Higher Purpose Talk" at the Boston Family Church in late September. Sixteen people attended the program, including five new participants. "The event began with fellowship, tasty pizza, and mochi ice cream," said Samuel, a local CARP member. "Participants also played a fun but challenging game of fishbowl charades to get to know one another."

The chapter's president delivered the main talk, which addressed ways to transform our lives into ones with a higher purpose through taking personal responsibility. "The program wrapped up with participants sharing their thoughts about the message and how it related to their own life," said Samuel. "Overall, the event was a success, and the core staff is very proud of holding this first event open to the general public." CARP Boston seeks to launch its first Divine Principle seminar, as well as a second Higher Purpose Talk in the coming weeks.

Nationally, CARP USA President Jinil Fleischman recently announced a “New Hope Workshop,” scheduled for January 2023 in Las Vegas, where chapter leaders will further develop ways to help new members who have read the Divine Principle gain deeper conviction in True Parents, the co-founders of CARP.

The Tribe Talk Podcast Series

April 21, 2022 · news, newsfeed

Contributed by Seiji Lindstrom

A little less than two years have passed since the start of the COVID-19 lockdown. As everything shifted online, so did we. Our discussion nights moved to Zoom and our outreach to social media. It was a challenge, but it brought many positive changes as well. The internet has no limits and we realized the potential it has. Mother Moon has been emphasizing its potential too. For a semester and a half, that vision grew more and more. We gained experience and with the help of many, our 6th Campus Talk took place online. We invited many fantastic guest speakers and worked with the CARP Bay Area hub, as well as a club at BYU-Idaho called the Child & Family Advocacy Society. The program was composed of experts in marriage, family, and sex, and had them discuss these topics in an engaging and educational manner.

At CARP Las Vegas we strive to create content that invites people to an open discussion. That’s been the basis for our Tribe Talk discussion nights. Based on our experiences with online Tribe Talks and online Campus Talk, we felt it was time to create the same experience where we can share the discussions we have and invite people to hear about our values using an even more accessible medium. And that’s how the Tribe Talk podcast series was born. We were intrigued by the idea of creating a discussion night that can fit easier into someone’s schedule and can be shared with anyone, anywhere.

Do We Need To Prepare To Have An Intimate And Romantic Relationship ?

It was scary and challenging, and it still is. Putting something on the internet meant we had to be very careful to represent our values as best as possible. Many meetings have gone by to decide the format, content, and what we wanted to convey. We consulted others who have hosted a podcast and those who’ve had experience with media and marketing. But the only way we could really learn was to finally do it ourselves. As scary and challenging as it was, it was exciting. As we got the ball rolling, it became more clear what we wanted to talk about. Through the whole process, we felt guided and opportunities came our way to make it go well. After releasing six episodes, we’ve seen the effect it has and the potential it carries. We are also working on segmenting the 6th Campus Talk and posting them as a series for people to listen to so be sure to check those out too!

CARP Momentum 2022: Chapters Double in One Year

“CARP Momentum is all about building up momentum as we go into each new school year, and I think that is what we’re experiencing,” said Jinil Fleischman, CARP USA President. “At our [leaders] workshop, you could really see and feel the spirit of our bright young people discussing CARP’s vision. There was a great sense of connection ... with a really clear sense of unity where we are all united on True Parents’ vision as CARP America.”

From July 25 to 27, CARP USA held its annual workshop for all CARP leaders at the Unification Theological Seminary (UTS) in Barrytown, New York. Some 90 college students participated in the program representing 24 states. “It was an amazing group,” said Fleischman during a recent FFWPU USA leaders’ meeting. “This was our largest CARP gathering since about 2016 ... These students are all witnessing on their campuses and leading their chapters, doing the work of our movement and True Parents on their campuses.”

From 2021 to 2022, CARP’s national presence doubled, said Fleischman – jumping from 11 to 22 states with CARP activity. Growth continued, he said, with an increase from 12 to 23 established chapters, and expanding from 31 to 47 campuses. “This doesn't include five new potential chapters," added Fleischman. "We have activity that's now taking place on many more campuses and we have really grown in the past year."

CARP leaders have been diligently working toward the group's national goals, as they aim to have 30,000 members and 1,200 chapters nationwide by 2027. "We're not quite there yet," said Fleischman, "but even in just one year we have grown in pretty significant ways."

Dr. Chung Sik Yong, Regional President, FFWPU North America, and all FFWPU USA regional leaders were on hand at the workshop to share guidance and messages of inspiration with the group. "Dr. Yong gave a really passionate speech to our leaders and called on them to really be the ones to respond to True Mother and make sacrifices," said Fleischman. "He and his family have made a lot of sacrifices for True Parents, and so that was the spirit of his message to our CARP members – to be willing to make that kind of offering for God's Will."

CARP leaders also heard more about the mission of Cheon Shim Won from CheonBo staff, as well as a Q&A session and moving student testimonies. "One young lady is one of two Unificationists going to school at Princeton, and she shared about pioneering CARP there," said Fleischman. "Despite backlash from Christians on campus, she was able to successfully establish a chapter."

"I'm really inspired to see the growth and engagement of all our student leaders," said FFWPU USA President Rev. Naokimi Ushiroda. "It's very hopeful for our future."

For Fleischman and CARP’s leaders, the new school year is already off to a powerful start. “I think this workshop was a really reviving experience for all of our students,” he said. “I think it’s giving them new life, and it’s really preparing all of us to go forward.”
