Greetings!

Please enjoy the testimony below from one of the parents of Lunis Kinderworld in Sarlahi district, Nepal. WFP USA is currently supporting Lunis Kinderworld in their mission to educate children with love and the heart of a parent.

worried.

My name is Laxmi. I'm Hardik's mom. My son is 5 years old and last year he started class at one of the private schools in the area.

I ended up sending him for just 2 weeks. He was crying a lot because of school. He was really scared; even at night before going to bed he would start to cry and didn't want to sleep thinking about going to school the next day. I was really

In our village, schools usually just write on the board and kids copy in their notebooks and memorize the information. Many of them can get punished—such as being hit on their hands or legs—for not doing well. Every class has a large number of students so in summer it is very difficult for kids.

The first time I heard that Lunis Kinderworld would open, I didn't understand what the difference is with our local schools. But once I started to bring my son to Lunis, I felt really good to see my son happy and excited about coming to study; everyday he is hurrying to come to school. Even on holidays or if he is sick he wants to come. At Lunis, kids learn with games, experiences, and love and the classes learn in small groups. All these are a big difference here.

We are halfway there with only 15 days left to raise the funds they need to build a proper school building at Lunis Kinderworld. Click below to read more about the journey, the school, and how donations can make a difference in the lives of many more children like Hardik.

Thank you for all of your support! We could not do this without you.
