Spring is finally here!

We are excited to share with you all the happenings at CARP from this past month. Thanks to the support and dedication of our students and donors alike, CARP continues its work in empowering students to become global citizens through the application and study the Unification Principles.

Some highlights include:

- campus events taking place on both coasts of America
- a student highlight featuring the student president of CARP Las Vegas
- an interview with a returning participant of the CARP LA Japan trip

Check out these highlights towards the end of this email. As the semester draws to a close, we wish all the students success on their final exams and projects. Here is one study TIP, especially for those in finals!

A yellow infographic titled 'life hacks' with the hashtag '#2224'. It lists the best times to study and corresponding brain function percentages. The text is centered and uses a mix of bold and regular fonts. At the bottom right, it includes the social media handle '@1000LifeHacks' and the website '1000LifeHacks.com'.

CARP NJIT Holds Japanese Culture Festival on Campus

On April 10th, the NJIT CARP Chapter organized a cultural event that attracted over 200 students. The chapter worked in collaboration with the local community and the university for funds.

The Launch of a New CARP Chapter

On April 13th, CARP Las Vegas held its grand opening for the College of Southern Nevada (CSN) chapter. The event brought together CSN students, CARP members, local Unificationists, and eight CSN professors and faculty.

A Series of Reflections on Forgiveness

What could you forgive? In joining the Easter conversation, we explore the different facets of forgiveness in this article. This is resource for anyone looking to forgive or be forgiven.

More Than a Club, It's a Lifestyle

This month's student highlight story is on Jinil Fleischman from CARP Las Vegas. Read all about the chapter's activities under Jinil's leadership and be inspired by his commitment to the CARP mission and values.

An Interview with S. Takhar on Japan Trip

In preparation for CARP's annual international exchange trip to Japan and Korea, we interviewed a returning participant from Los Angeles on what she gained last year and what she looks forward to on this year's trip.
