True Mother's prays on February 7, 2020 at the Hyojeong Cosmic Blessing Ceremony

I had a deep experience with True Mother at the CheonBo Blessing in Korea earlier this year.

My body is not great these days, but we only had standing tickets for the event. I asked my good ancestors for help and felt quite strongly that we would be given some seats.

Where we were standing, in the walkway between the seats, lots of people were pushing passed us in both directions. Chizuko suggested we move but I felt we should stay there. Someone came along, singled us out (maybe we looked a bit old) and gave us some tickets for seats. I was so grateful.

True Mother entered the arena, help by Sun Jin nim, but then she was left by herself. I felt very sorry for Mother sat by herself in the centre of such a large stage. I supposed I could understand why but I did not like to see her alone – surely someone could sit beside her?

The ceremony was very good but at one point Paul Pots came on and was singing Bring Him Home with the words:

God on high
Hear my prayer

In my need
You have always been there
He is young
He's afraid
Let him rest
Heaven blessed.

Bring him home
Bring him home
Bring him home.

During the song there was a projection of pictures of True Father, Hyo Jin nim and Hyung Jin nim. In my mind I cried out "You cannot do that to Mother!" Tears streamed down my face. The sacrifice True Mother has made is just too incredible. To emphasise this at one point the MC was saying how True Mother could not even shed tears for her sons' sacrifice. What humanistic thoughts are you tempted to have when you hear such statements?

How does Mother keep going? In one sense she could just hide away and lead a comfortable life but for our sake she sits in the centre of a large auditorium by herself, listening to a heart-breaking song about her lost sons.

I remembered something Father said about sitting on the cold floor for hours at Belvedere: he said "You will probably forget what I said but you will not forget the experience with me".

How do you show thousands, millions, of people that you love them? Jesus went to the cross to show his love because we could not believe that he loved us. True Father went to Hung Nam for the same reason. He would talk for hours without sitting down to show his love.

Looking at True Mother sat there by herself watching that video and listening to that song I could feel True Mother's incredible love for us.
