Canadian conservative political theorist William Barclay published an op-ed calling South Korean President Lee "Asia's newest dictator."

His argument rests on three pillars. 1. Suppression of Human Rights The Lee administration has violated freedom of religion, assembly, and expression. Barclay claims the government pressured X to remove accounts questioning the 2025 election, and cites Trump's remark: "What is going on in South Korea? Seems like a Purge or Revolution."

Canadian conservative political theorist William Barclay published an op-ed calling South Korean President Lee "Asia's newest dictator."

His argument rests on three pillars.

1. Suppression of Human Rights

The Lee administration has violated freedom of religion, assembly, and expression.

Barclay claims the government pressured X to remove accounts questioning the 2025 election, and cites Trump's remark: "What is going on in South Korea? Seems like a Purge or Revolution."

2. Political Persecution

The Special Counsel was allegedly abused to raid opposition offices and churches.

Former President Yoon was held in "inhumane conditions" before being sentenced to life imprisonment.

On religious persecution, Barclay writes:

>"The Lee regime has baselessly persecuted and arrested numerous Christian leaders, such as the brave Pastor Hyun-bo Son and the 83-year-old 'Mother of Peace,' Hak Ja Han. In truth, President Lee has effectively attempted to afford his government the ability to exile Christ himself from South Korea, via ghoulish new 'dissolution orders' that will permit the DPK to abort any 'religious foundations' adjudged to be even inadvertently implicated in the politics of the South Korean nation."

Barclay argues that repeated impeachment motions against senior officials during the Yoon era were designed to paralyze democratic processes and manufacture "a false narrative of insurrection.

3. Distortion of Judicial Processes

President Lee has exploited Korea's democratic processes, under the banner of the law, to re-entrench his power and nullify the will of the people.

Judicial reform laws expand the Supreme Court from 14 to 26 justices, with Lee appointing 22.

Barclay calls this a brazen power grab, citing former U.S. Ambassador Morse Tan, who labeled it something "done by leftist dictatorships."

Conclusion

Barclay closes: "South Korea as we know it is about to be lost." He frames Lee's authoritarian drift as a threat not just to South Korea, but to democracy across the region.

This is only a summary.

S. Korean military should have performed a coup right after Lee took power. Trump has been fooling around removing leaders from other nations when his focus should first have been Removing Lee. Too late now?

S Korea is on the precipice of abolishing democracy. Never thought this outcome even 5 years ago. Korea's people have been betrayed. China has a new jewel to show the World proving the ingenuity of strategies of communism. World leaders have been misdirected by partners in crime

Lee Jae-myung said in front of Chinese reporters that the number of human individuals should be reduced through a large-scale war. This person is very dangerous.

Just leaving this footnote for future reference. The leftists in South Korea have spent decades preparing for this takeover, and their most loyal political base, often referred to in Korea as the "Daughters of Revolution" (though not exclusively female), has given them an edge

US State Department take note. We need action to help Korea away from dictatorship.
