

FFWPU Europe and Middle East: Toru Goto's Fight for Justice: Faith Under Siege

Knut Holdhus
February 19, 2025

A press conference held after the verdict. From right: Lawyer Shinichi Tokunaga, Toru Goto, representative of the National Association of Victims of Abduction, Confinement, and Forced Conversion; and Lawyer Tatsuki Nakayama - January 31, 2025, Chiyoda Ward, Tokyo

Justice prevails when victim of 12 years of horrendous abuse by anti-religious activists wins defamation case against one of them

Tokyo, 17th February 2025 - Published as an article in the Japanese newspaper Sekai Nippo. Republished with permission. Translated from Japanese. Original article.

[Series] The "Deadly Struggle" to Protect Freedom of Religion - 17 Years Since Toru Goto's Release

Part 2: A Verdict That Turns the Discourse on Its Head

Eito Suzuki Loses Defamation Case

by the Religious Freedom Investigative Team of the editorial department of Sekai Nippo

Eito Suzuki in January 2024

See part 1

"This case has shed light on the grave human rights violations of abduction and confinement."

On 31st January, Toru Goto (後藤徹) - now 61 - representing the National Association of Victims of Abduction, Confinement, and Forced Conversion, shared his legal victory with supporters, who responded with applause.

This triumph came approximately one year and four months after Goto filed a defamation lawsuit against journalist Eito Suzuki (鈴木 木エイト) at the Tokyo District Court in October 2023. Suzuki had previously ridiculed Goto's past abduction and confinement experience by dismissing him as a mere "hikikomori" (recluse) [See editor's note below].

Background of the Case

Suzuki and attorneys from the National Network of Lawyers Against Spiritual Sales (Zenkoku Benren) do not recognize abduction and confinement for the purpose of coercive faith-breaking as religious persecution. Instead, they argue that it is a form of "protective persuasion" by family members aimed at rescuing believers. They claim that lawsuits alleging human rights violations are merely desperate attempts by religious organizations to avoid dissolution.

Lawyer Shinichi Tokunaga (徳永信一), representing Goto, criticized the media for only presenting anti-religious organization perspectives and failing to report on the truth regarding coercive faith-breaking. He stressed that this verdict could be a pivotal step in overturning Japan's discourse, which he described as "built on lies".

Toru Goto in March 2011, at the start of a civil case

Goto was held in captivity for 12 years and 5 months. In January 2011, he filed a civil lawsuit against his relatives, a Christian pastor, and an "anti-cult" activist involved in his confinement. In September 2015, the Supreme Court finalized the ruling, ordering the defendants to pay 22 million yen in damages.

However, Suzuki, in an online article published on 13th March 2013, in Yaya Nikkan Cult Newspaper, downplayed Goto's ordeal, stating:

"After persuading his family, he simply stayed in the apartment, became complacent, and ended up as a mere 'hikikomori'

(recluse)." [See editor's note below]

Even after the Supreme Court ruling, this article remained online. In a post on X (formerly Twitter) 1st August 2023, Goto expressed his frustration:

"Does he not understand the suffering of being forcibly coerced into renouncing one's faith?"

Despite the court ruling, Suzuki continued to call Goto a "hikikomori" in articles and television appearances. In an 15th October 2015, article in Yaya Nikkan Cult Newspaper, he wrote:

"After 12 years of being a hikikomori, he won 20 million yen in court."

Miyane-ya

On 12th August 2022, during an appearance on Miyane-ya (a news program on Nippon TV), Suzuki described Goto's lawsuit as a case where "the court was swayed by an unusual fervor." He also claimed that Goto had been "practically in a hikikomori state, always free to leave if he wanted."

Ongoing Defamation and Court Ruling

Masumi Fukuda, here delivering a speech Sep. 23, 2024 in Chiba City, Japan

The defamation against Goto continued. In July 2023, Suzuki attended a symposium hosted by second-generation members of the Family Federation for World Peace and Unification (formerly the Unification Church). When asked by nonfiction writer Masumi Fukuda (福田ますみ) why he insisted on calling Goto a "hikikomori", Suzuki replied dismissively:

"It doesn't matter. Take it however you like."

A few days later, he posted on X:

"There is no value in covering the 'victim narratives' of anti-social groups. It's all irrelevant."

The Tokyo District Court ruled that Suzuki's statements in the 15th October 2015 Yaya Nikkan Cult Newspaper article and his August 2022 Miyaneya appearance constituted defamation. However, other statements, including his 2013 article, his comments at the 2023 symposium, and his X post, were not considered legally defamatory.

Goto's legal team had also argued that Suzuki's repeated use of "hikikomori" implied that Goto was a "liar and conman who is pretending to be a victim of confinement", but this claim was not accepted by the court.

Appeal and Future Battles

Lawyer Tokunaga expressed his determination to appeal, vowing to challenge all dismissed claims in the higher court. As public sentiment remains strongly against the Family Federation, Goto fears that abduction and confinement cases may resurge. For him, this fight that cannot be lost continues.

See part 1

[Editor's note: The Japanese term "hikikomori" (引きこもり) refers to people who completely withdraw from social life, often isolating themselves at home for extended periods - sometimes years. It describes both the phenomenon and the individuals affected by it.

Hikikomori typically avoid school, work, and social interactions, often due to anxiety, social pressure, or mental health struggles such as depression. The term is sometimes used in a derogatory way but is also recognized as a serious social issue in Japan and other countries.]

- Related to fight for justice: "Worst Post-War Human Rights Violations in Japan"
- More, related to fight for justice: Japan: Exhibition Exposes Horrors of Persecution
- More, related to fight for justice: Japan Copying Faith-Breaking Concepts of China
- More, related to fight for justice: Japan: 4300 Abductions and Forcible Detentions
- More, related to fight for justice: Japanese Government Rejects UN Investigation
- More, related to fight for justice: 2024: Why Doesn't Japan Accept UN Visit?
- Related to fight for justice: Courts Using Debunked Concepts Against Minority
- Also related to fight for justice: Dissolution Case: Wild Claims, Illegal Actions
- Also related to fight for justice: Terms from Consumer Law Used to Rob Faith
- Also related to fight for justice: 2nd-Generation Members Protesting Persecution
- Also related to fight for justice: Inhuman Government-Supported Mass Deprogramming
- And also related to fight for justice: Bias: No Right to Respond for Religious Minority
- More, related to fight for justice: Collusion to Rob Minority of Its Rights
- And more, related to fight for justice: State and Media Creating "Today's Non-Citizens"
- Still more, related to fight for justice: Japan Criticized for Glaring Rights Violations
- Even more, related to fight for justice: Two European Scholars Warning Japan
- And yet more, related to fight for justice: Japan Censured at Religious Freedom Event
- And still more, related to fight for justice: Lawyer Exposes Dirty Leftwing Plot

Mental And Physical Torture Of Faith-Breaking

February 17, 2025 • Knut Holdhus

Victim of horrendous ordeal – more than 12 years long faith-breaking – suffered hellish existence of mental and physical torture

Logo of the Sekai Nippo

Tokyo, 15th February 2025 – Published as an article in the Japanese newspaper Sekai Nippo. Republished with permission. Translated from Japanese. Original article.

[Series] The “Deadly Struggle” to Protect Freedom of Religion – 17 Years Since Toru Goto’s Release

Part 1: Tears over Two 500-Yen Coins Given Him by a Believer

The 10km Path He Walked After His Release

Share: f t w l e

More Posts

Toru Goto's Fight For Justice: Faith Under Siege

February 19, 2025

Faith-Breaking Now And Pre-1945 Thought Reform

February 18, 2025

Appalling: Japan Has Ignored Abuses For 60 Years

February 16, 2025

Risky Precedent: Church Ties And Case Dismissal

February 15, 2025

US Religious Advisor Rebuts Dissolution Request

February 15, 2025

Preciousness Of Freedom: Locked Up For 12 Years

February 14, 2025

25th Anniversary Of Big 30,000 Couples' Wedding

February 13, 2025

Search...

Categories

See part 2

More than 4,300 persons have been victims of abduction and confinement aimed at forcing them to leave the Family Federation for World Peace and Unification (formerly the Unification Church). These victims were held captive for long periods in apartments and other locations, deprived of their freedom, and subjected to coercive faith-breaking. The method has been described as a “modern-day zashiki-ro (座敷牢 – prison cell)”. [\[See editor's note below\]](#)

One of the most harrowing cases is that of Toru Goto (後藤徹) – now 61 – who was confined for an astonishing 12 years and 5 months.

On 10th February, marking the 17th anniversary of his release, Goto published his autobiography, Deadly Struggle: Surviving 4,536 Days of Confinement (published by Sogeisha). Goto continues to speak out against the issue of abduction, confinement, and coercive faith-breaking, which has been called “the worst human rights violation in postwar Japan”.

On the anniversary of his release, Goto gave a lecture in Suginami Ward, Tokyo, to mark the publication of his book.

Front cover page of Japanese edition of Toru Goto's new book “Deadly Struggle: Surviving 4,536 Days of Confinement”

Supporters walk the route toward Shibuya's Shoto, retracing the past journey of Toru Goto – 10th February 2025, Ogikubo, Suginami Ward, Tokyo. Photo: Yasuhiro Uno (宇野泰弘)

After the event, he and about 20 supporters walked a 10-kilometer route toward the Family Federation's headquarters in Shoto, Shibuya Ward – the same path he had taken after being freed.

During his confinement,

Goto was malnourished, and his weight dropped from 65kg to 50kg. Seventeen years ago, he was thrown out of the apartment with nothing – penniless, no possessions. In his weakened state, he had no choice but to walk the long distance to the church headquarters. The purpose of this commemorative walk was for others to relive that journey.

The group first headed to Ogikubo, where the apartment he had been confined in was located. As they approached, Goto paused and pointed to the corner unit on the eighth floor, saying, “That is the room where I was locked up for over 10 years.” He added, “Many believers suffered abduction and confinement in places like this.” The apartment, located in a quiet residential area, had an eighth floor that was difficult to see from the ground, making escape nearly impossible. It was within this very room that the “worst postwar human rights violation”, as Goto calls it, took place.

For 12 years and 5 months, Goto was locked in an apartment where the door and windows were sealed, leaving no way to escape. As the years passed, his physical strength deteriorated, making the possibility of escape even more impossible. His freedom of religion – the most precious thing to him – was taken away, and his very personality (人格) was denied [\[See editor's note below\]](#). Yet, he never gave up his faith. Enduring the mental and physical torture of coercive faith-breaking, he finally regained his freedom on 10th February 2008, when his family, exhausted

The location of the 8th floor apartment in Ogikubo, Tokyo where Toru Goto was held captive and dehumanized. Photo: National Association of Victims of Abduction, Confinement, and Forced Deconversion,

Send us a message

First Name * Last Name

Email *

Your Message *

Submit

from their own struggle, abandoned their attempts and released him.

Just two to three minutes from the apartment was a police box (koban). At the time of his release, Goto hoped the police would intervene, believing that if they acted quickly, they could collect evidence. He approached the police, pleading desperately for help, but was completely ignored.

Realizing that no help would come, he decided to walk all the way to the church headquarters in Shoto, Shibuya, even though he knew it was an extremely long journey.

As the group retraced his steps, they moved eastward along Oume Kaido Avenue toward Shoto. The bustling main road was lined with stores, including gyudon (beef bowl) restaurants, ramen shops, and convenience stores.

Back then, Goto had no money and was starving, yet he couldn't even enter these shops to buy food. He couldn't rely on passersby either. The isolation he felt at the time must have been unbearable. Yet, he recalled, "I was desperate to get to the church headquarters, no matter what."

When he passed Yoyogi-Hachiman Station on the Odakyu Line, he reached a point more than halfway through the journey. However, a pedestrian bridge stood in his way. There was no pedestrian crossing – the only way forward was to climb the bridge. His weakened body was near its limit, making even walking a struggle. Somehow, he forced himself up and down the bridge, step by step.

Finally, he reached the Shoto 2-chome intersection – a place he calls "the climax of the journey". Seventeen years ago, at this very spot, the pain in his knees had reached its limit. Exhausted, he crouched down. Desperate, he asked a random woman for help. Miraculously, she turned out to be a member of the Family Federation.

"It was truly a miracle," he recalled with excitement.

That woman handed him two 500-yen coins (about $6-$7 USD), which he used to hail a taxi. He finally arrived at the church headquarters – but even then, he was faced with one final obstacle.

The entrance was just five meters away, yet it felt impossibly distant. At last, he reached the guard at the entrance, who contacted church staff to take him in.

Severely malnourished and physically exhausted, Goto was given a plate of katsu curry, a red bean bun, and a meat bun by the church guard.

"I was so happy I could cry."

His eyes sparkled as he spoke, and his words conveyed everything.

See part 2

Featured image above: Toru Goto smiles as he arrives at the Shoto 2-chome intersection – 10th February 2025, Tokyo. Photo: Sekai Nippo

[Editor's note: A zashiki-rō (座敷牢) is a traditional Japanese confinement room used historically for restraining individuals, typically within a private household. Zashiki (座敷) refers to a Japanese-style tatami-matted room. Rō (牢) means a jail or cell.

Historically, these rooms were used for confining family members who were mentally ill, violent, or otherwise considered disruptive or dangerous to the household or community. The practice was more common in the Edo (1603–1868) and Meiji (1868–1912) periods, before modern mental health care systems were established.

A Zashiki-rō was typically equipped with sturdy sliding doors reinforced with bars or locks, ensuring the person inside could not escape. It was located within a family home or a secluded part of the property, ensuring privacy. The confined individual was often left alone in this small, sparse room with minimal furnishings, and their basic needs were provided through a small opening or at designated times.

The term "zashiki-rō" today is often used

Miraculously, a famished and exhausted Toru Goto met a female member who gave him money for a taxi ride.

Illustration: National Association of Victims of Abduction, Confinement, and Forced Deconversion,

The door was chained.
Photo: National Association of Victims of Abduction, Confinement, and Forced Deconversion"

metaphorically to describe situations of coercive confinement or control, as it evokes the idea of being trapped in a restrictive, oppressive environment. Such imagery is sometimes applied to cases of forced detainment or isolation, like in the more than 4,300 instances of members of the Family Federation being abducted and confined.]

[Editor's note: The phrase "denial of one's (legal) personality" refers to an infringement on a person's fundamental (legal) rights and status as an individual under the law. Legal personality is the recognition by the law that an individual has certain rights and responsibilities and can exercise these rights within a legal framework. When someone is abducted or confined against their will, their basic autonomy and capacity to make legal decisions – such as freedom of movement, freedom of association, and the ability to express religious beliefs – are severely restricted or completely denied.

In this context, Toru Goto is emphasizing that his experience of abduction and confinement stripped him of these legal capacities, as he was deprived of the freedom to act as an autonomous legal subject. By calling it a "denial of one's (legal) personality", he underscores the severity of these actions, framing them as violations not just of personal freedom, but of the foundational rights guaranteed to individuals within a democratic society.]

Related to torture of faith-breaking: "Worst Post-War Human Rights Violations in Japan"

More, related to torture of faith-breaking: Japan: Exhibition Exposes Horrors of Persecution

More, related to torture of faith-breaking: Japan Copying Faith-Breaking Concepts of China

More, related to torture of faith-breaking: Japan: 4300 Abductions and Forcible Detentions

More, related to torture of faith-breaking: Japanese Government Rejects UN Investigation

More, related to torture of faith-breaking: 2024: Why Doesn't Japan Accept UN Visit?

Related to torture of faith-breaking: Courts Using Debunked Concepts Against Minority

Also related to torture of faith-breaking: Dissolution Case: Wild Claims, Illegal Actions

Also related to torture of faith-breaking: Terms from Consumer Law Used to Rob Faith

Also related to torture of faith-breaking: 2nd-Generation Members Protesting Persecution

Also related to torture of faith-breaking: Inhuman Government-Supported Mass Deprogramming

And also related to torture of faith-breaking: Bias: No Right to Respond for Religious Minority

More, related to torture of faith-breaking: Collusion to Rob Minority of Its Rights

And more, related to torture of faith-breaking: State and Media Creating "Today's Non-Citizens"

Still more, related to torture of faith-breaking: Japan Criticized for Glaring Rights Violations

Even more, related to torture of faith-breaking: Two European Scholars Warning Japan

And yet more, related to torture of faith-breaking: Japan Censured at Religious Freedom Event

And still more, related to torture of faith-breaking: Lawyer Exposes Dirty Leftwing Plot

First Name

Last Name

Your Email Address

Subscribe

☐ I consent to have this website store my personal information so that I can receive the newsletter

Follow us

