Jacinda Ardern, Prime Minister of New Zealand 2017-2023

On March 25, 2025, in response to a petition filed by Japan's Ministry of Education, Culture, Sports, Science and Technology, the Tokyo District Court handed down its ruling that the Family Federation for World Peace and Unification (hereinafter "Family Federation") in Japan should be dissolved.

The World Mission Headquarters of the Family Federation for World Peace and Unification expresses its strong regret regarding this ruling. This is a grave matter that cannot be overlooked, and we are deeply aware of the seriousness of this decision, which has completely disregarded the truth, conscience, and freedom of religion.

In 2019, some 50 people were killed in New Zealand in a terrorist attack targeting a specific religion. The Prime Minister of New Zealand at the time determined that the terrorist's purpose was to gain notoriety and incite hatred against that religion, declaring, "We will give him nothing. Not even a name." This resolute attitude and thorough response garnered worldwide attention.

Tetsuya Yamagami, terrorist aided by Japanese media and without criminal proceedings two years and eight months after his assassination of Shinzo Abe, the former prime minister of Japan

On the other hand, following the assassination of former Prime Minister Abe in July 2022, the perpetrator's alleged grudge against the Family Federation was reported without factual verification, resulting in his name becoming recognized worldwide. Despite his actions having terrorist overtones, biased reporting based on predictable media stereotypes helped build the perpetrator a support base among his own countrymen, while the Family Federation has received government censure. This has afforded the assassin significant benefits, and remarkably, even two years and eight months since Mr. Abe's murder, no criminal proceedings have been announced.

The Japanese Family Federation has not been charged with any crime. In fact, until October 2022, the Japanese government consistently maintained that there were no grounds for dissolving the Family Federation, and there were almost no relevant complaints filed with consumer centers.

However, it was following the assassination that the incumbent Prime Minister reversed his position within just one day of having stated in an official parliamentary response that, "Civil law torts are not grounds for dissolution," expanding the legal interpretation to include civil law violations as grounds for dissolution.

So far, the Japanese Family Federation has faithfully implemented church reform. Even including civil lawsuits for personal claims, most of the judgments concern incidents from more than 15 years ago, with the average dating back 32 years. In addition, most of the cases have already been resolved with compensation.

Prime Minister Fumio Kishida, the very person who reversed his position, opening the door wide for a dissolution order, April 16, 2023

When considering these facts comprehensively, it is evident that the Japanese Family Federation not only fails to merit a corporate dissolution order, but also that certain politicians and bureaucrats have targeted it for state-sponsored persecution. This constitutes a serious human rights violation contrary to international law and constitutional principles. The United Nations has raised concerns and made recommendations to the Japanese government on three occasions, stating that religious freedom should not be infringed upon under the pretext of "public welfare". The Japanese government ignored these, however, and proceeded with the decision. This represents a serious betrayal of the United Nations and the international community.

Moreover, allegations of evidence tampering during the hearings pursuant to the Ministry of Education, Culture, Sports, Science and Technology's request for a dissolution order have alarmed the international community.

Japanese parliamentarians have raised suspicions about the possibility that evidence submitted to court proceedings by the Ministry's representatives was fabricated, but the Ministry's

Agency for Cultural Affairs merely repeats that it "cannot comment on matters pending in court." These parliamentarians emphasized that "it is significant that allegations of manipulation or fabrication have not been denied" and demanded relevant documentation - which the Agency for Cultural Affairs refused to provide. If these allegations prove true, it will constitute a serious challenge to Japan's constitutional and legal order. The international community, as well as numerous just and reasonable Japanese politicians and leaders, will not tolerate such injustice.

Senator Satoshi Hamada, member of House of Councillors, NHK Party, asking questions in parliament about evidence tampering. Here speaking in Yokohama City, Japan on January 26, 2025

The social discrimination, persecution, and human rights violations against Japanese Family Federation members have reached a serious level. Since the shooting of former Prime Minister Abe, and following the filing of the dissolution order request, the suffering of members in Japan has been beyond our imagination.

Cases of dismissal due to someone's identity as a church member being exposed in the media, being refused employment for having graduated from a Family Federation-affiliated university, and cases of blatant slander during school classes and even during exams have left members and their children deeply wounded in heart. There have even been reports of couples being forced divorce due to faith conflicts within families, violence and confiscation of property, termination of housing contracts, refusal of medical treatment, and even instances of young people committing suicide due to psychological distress caused by distorted media coverage.

As a result, Japanese Family Federation members have become victims who are socially isolated and persecuted by their own government despite following a legitimate path of faith. Freedom of religion, freedom of thought, freedom of speech, and freedom of assembly and association are fundamental rights that must be guaranteed to all people. In an advanced nation such as Japan, the infringement of basic religious rights - to have a faith, and to pray - based only on one's belief in a particular religion cannot be justified.

There are concerns that the court's decision may lead to even more serious social problems in a chain reaction. Indeed, there are growing voices in the international community questioning the status of religious freedom in Japan. The U.S. State Department has pointed out that the Japanese government's use of civil litigation to justify dissolution contradicts the common sense and norms of liberal democratic nations. Religious freedom advocates worldwide are moreover strongly critical of the outcome as an abuse of legal procedures and an infringement of fundamental human rights.

In February of this year, at the 2025 International Religious Freedom Summit held in Washington, D.C., U.S. Vice President J.D. Vance said,

"Part of our [government's] protecting religious freedom initiatives means recognizing, in our foreign policy, the difference between regimes that respect religious freedom and those that do not."

This represents a strong commitment to the active protection of religious freedom.

Furthermore, former Republican House Speaker Newt Gingrich strongly criticized this case as the Japanese government's attempt, beyond its constitution, to destroy the Japanese Family Federation. He stated that,

"The Biden administration has already condemned this activity. The United Nations has already condemned this activity. And now, with President Trump, we have somebody who is deeply, passionately committed to religious liberty."

 Senator J.D. ---	---	--

He also warned of international repercussions, saying,

"This is going to have grave consequences for the United States' relationship with Japan."

Former U.S. Secretary of State Mike Pompeo expressed concern that this precedent could undermine Japan's position as a defender of freedom in Asia and advance the interests of those who oppose the U.S. and Japan's shared commitment to human dignity and religious freedom.

Family Federation members worldwide strongly support the Japanese Family Federation as it prepares for an appeal. At the same time, we are deeply concerned that some Japanese politicians and their bureaucratic followers are pursuing private and political interests, which is damaging to the traditions and spirit of Japan as a free and democratic nation. We expect the Japanese government and judiciary to make an impartial and fair judgment in strict compliance with international law and their own constitution.

the court's decision to allow the Japanese government to dissolve FFWPU Japan.

"The church and the concept of religious freedom are now battling for survival in Japan's legal system."

(All quotes sourced from The Washington Times unless otherwise noted)

Let Us Be Clear: No Crime Was Committed

For the first time in Japan's postwar history, a peaceful religious organization is being dismantled by the state without a single criminal conviction. The court's decision does not mark justice – it marks a turning point in Japan's democratic identity.

Japan's Ministry of Education, Culture, Sports and Technology (MEXT) conducted a thorough investigation and concluded that the Family Federation violated no criminal law. On October 17, 2022, Prime Minister Fumio Kishida stated in Parliament that the church could not be dissolved on that basis. Yet the very next day, Kishida reversed course, claiming the government could pursue dissolution based solely on civil complaints. This reversal opened the door for a legal reinterpretation that undermines religious freedom not just in Japan – but globally.

As the U.S. State Department observed, this move "marked a deviation from the norm" in Japan's treatment of religious organizations.

This Is Not Justice – It Is Lawfare

On March 13, 2025, Senator Satoshi Hamada publicly questioned the Ministry of Education about falsified evidence used in the court proceedings. Referring to a post by lawyer Shinichi Tokunaga:

"The crime of the century: MEXT filed a request for a dissolution order based on falsified statements. A designated agent of MEXT, who is a government official, falsified evidence to be used in court proceedings. If Japan grants the dissolution order based on fabricated evidence, it will become a disgrace to the world." – Attorney Shinichi Tokunaga (on X)

Senator Satoshi Hamada (浜田 聡, House of Councillors, NHK Party) here speaking in Yokohama City, Japan on 26th January 2025. Photo: Yasuhiro Uno (宇野泰弘)

Hamada asked if the Ministry had any response to the charge that the government had purposely fabricated witness testimonies in order to smear the church. As if in admission of guilt, the Ministry's representative did not deny the charge.

Hamada concluded that the government's failure to respond was "significant," calling the legitimacy of the entire process into question.

"The government seeks to dissolve the church and liquidate and absorb all assets. The church will cease to exist."

Who Are the Architects of the Dissolution Campaign?

The driving force behind this case is a political-legal alliance. MEXT has relied heavily on the National Network of Lawyers Against Spiritual Sales (NNLASS) – a group of leftist lawyers formed in the 1980s to oppose the Unification Church and its anti-communist stance.

In 1987, NNLASS founder Hiroshi Yamaguchi stated plainly:

"The aim of the lawyers' association is to convince the Ministry of Education to revoke the religious corporation status of the Unification Church."

That campaign, dormant for decades, is now being carried out – under the pretense of protecting “public welfare.”

The Real Reason: Ideological Hostility

For over 60 years, the Family Federation has stood for God, family, and freedom. Rev. and Dr. Moon founded the International Federation for Victory Over Communism (IFVOC) to counter Marxist ideology with spiritual truth. In Japan, IFVOC worked closely with leaders in the Liberal Democratic Party, including Prime Minister Abe and his predecessors. This made the movement a prime target for ideological opponents.

“This is the final war against the Unification Church.” – Kazuo Shii, Chairman, Japanese Communist Party.

Based on the evidence and statements presented in the Akahata and Sunday Mainichi [\[See editor's note below\]](#) interviews with Kazuo Shii, it is clear that this war was never about FFWPU's religious practices or political controversy – but the endpoint of an organized, 45-year ideological war.

However, it gets worse.

Religious Freedom in Japan Is Under Threat – And It's Spreading

Governments in Rwanda, Kenya, and the Czech Republic have already followed Japan's lead in restricting or shutting down religious organizations based on a reinterpretation of the law to revoke religious freedoms. If Japan – a respected liberal democracy – can do this, others will follow.

At the 2025 International Religious Freedom Summit, former House Speaker Newt Gingrich issued a warning that could not be clearer:

“A government which can block you from approaching God can block you from anything. This is a key test of the future of Japan – a key test of the future of religious liberty.”

PETITION TO PROTECT RELIGIOUS FREEDOM IN JAPAN

To our members: remain steadfast in faith. We are preparing our appeal and we will not stop until this injustice is overturned. The Family Federation was born to stand for truth and freedom – and we are not afraid.

fundamental right to freedom of belief.

Aware of its own misconduct and vulnerability to international scrutiny, the Ishiba administration took the unprecedented step of rejecting a fact-finding visit by Dr. Nazila Ghanea, the United Nations Special Rapporteur on Freedom of Religion and Belief [See editor's note below]. This refusal speaks volumes about the lack of transparency and the profound injustice of this ruling.

The Family Federation, founded 70 years ago by the late Rev. Sun Myung Moon and now led by his wife, Dr. Hak Ja Han Moon, is a young yet vibrant global faith community with devoted followers across more than 175 countries. Throughout our history, we have consistently placed our accountability first to God, and no government's approval or disapproval has ever altered our mission or our deeply held convictions.

Despite this unjust persecution and discriminatory action by the Japanese authorities, we firmly believe our members in Japan will emerge stronger in their faith. Our prayers, solidarity, and unwavering support are with them during this challenging time.

Dr. Michael Balcomb serves as the President of the Family Federation for Europe and the Middle East, and as National Director of the Family Federation in the United Kingdom. His wife, Fumiko Balcomb, was born in Japan.

[Editor's note: A Special Rapporteur (or Independent Expert) is an independent human rights expert appointed by the United Nations (UN) to provide reports or advice on human rights issues from either a thematic or country-specific perspective. These experts are selected by the UN Human Rights Council and operate independently of any government, playing a crucial role in monitoring the actions of sovereign nations and democratically elected governments.

Special Rapporteurs do not receive financial compensation from the United Nations for their work. However, they receive support from the Office of the United Nations High Commissioner for Human Rights and are often funded by charities and corporations. Annually, they convene in Geneva to discuss common issues, coordinate their efforts, and engage with various stakeholders, including states and civil society organizations.

These experts frequently conduct fact-finding missions to investigate human rights violation allegations in different countries. In addition to these missions, they regularly review complaints from alleged victims of human rights abuses. If a complaint is verified, they send an urgent letter or appeal to the concerned government. Even without a specific complaint, Special Rapporteurs can intervene on behalf of individuals or groups at their discretion.]
