Heavenly Top Gun Report,

True Mother, I hope you are doing well. I am doing my best in the mission field with a heart of longing for you. Thank you for waiting for my reports despite the shortcomings. I would like to report to you this month's mission and my realizations.

November started with a 4-day workshop at the university and the Catholic Church respectively. We focus on university students from the University of Abomekarabi, which is the largest university in Benin with 80,000 students. And the other 4-day workshop was conducted in a Catholic Church for pastor and youth of the Catholic community, which was introduced to us by one of our guests. The purpose of the workshop is to connect them to the 12-days workshop this coming in December and to eventually guide them to receive the Blessings. We are very eager to connect as many single young adults to Mother.

Also, this month, Director Sakuwa came to Benin and spoke to us about True Mother. We were blessed to receive the vitamins True Mother gave to him. Director Sakuwa emphasized the environmental issues that True Mother has been focusing on, and he created platform for the missionaries to volunteer on the cleaning service, and we immediately followed the instructions and started cleaning for 15 minutes every day. We also set the conditions for the calling out prayer as a team so that we could witness the prepared righteous people to the Cheon Won Gung Entrance Ceremony for True Mother, and we are putting our prayers into practice every day. I feel that our small sincerity is acknowledged by heaven, and that the sincerity of our Blessed family members is bearing fruit.

In terms of results, some of the missionaries' guests are starting to have medical examinations and are ready to receive the Blessing. Once they have the medical examination, all they must do is take a picture and post it on the website. But there were moments where I felt like Satan could come in during these hopeful times, so I am determined to not give up and continue to move forward.

Mother, the weather in Benin has been so hot lately that I haven't been sleeping well at night, and my teammates have been getting sick, so it's not easy. In this environment, it's difficult and there are times when I complain, but then I think about you and wonder if you were able to sleep well tonight without any worries. You must be worried about what's going on in the world and you struggle to rest well because this, so I am doing my best in the field to make sure that you can rest as soon as possible. Our struggle with the heat and lack of sleep is nothing compared to your situation. We genuinely hope that we can ease even just a little bit of your worries. And we will challenge ourselves to the end so that we can return even one more child to your bosom. We love you, True Mother. Thank you.
