LIFE HAS TAUGHT HIM A LOT

As a lifelong resident of Powell County, Magistrate Brian McKinney graduated from Powell County High School and Eastern Kentucky University. His goal as magistrate is to make Powell County the best it can be, a place where children can have opportunities to be successful.

In 2019, he retired from his 29 year career as a teacher, athletic director and coach. However, he's continued to be involved with his community as a first responder with Powell County Search and Rescue and local fire departments. He works part time for Powell County Emergency Medical Services (EMS) and Clark County Fire Department. With each of these responsibilities, he has seen first hand some of the issues Powell County faces. He is addressing the drug crisis the county faces and continues to improve the community.

His goal is not to be a politician, but now more than ever, he thinks it's time to bring in new blood, progressive thinking, and most importantly, progressive action while holding true to Powell County roots. "Our thoughts should not be just for today, but the tomorrows our children will face."
