

2nd Pathways to a Sustainable Future: Day 7

Minoru Nakata
July 10, 2016

Today we had the Sunday service given by Rev. John Gehring and it was important to see in our reality a practical way to approach God through our hearts and understand how God always expected, even with our mistakes or when we forget He is waiting for us. Primarily we must find the path to happiness within our immediate families.

Today we participated in a soccer game and joined together with the community. At night we said goodbye to the city with musical presentations, singing, dancing and martial arts. We could offer our heart and gratitude towards them even with short preparation. We hope that the seed that we have planted here can last and grow in the future. We will never forget this experience! It helped to expand our ability to love different people with different cultures, languages or religions.

