

Fallen nature's message is that other people are the problem

Fallen nature's message is that other people are the problem, and getting rid of them is the solution. Whether it's getting rid of God, our parents, our pesky brother, boss, the other political party, the bourgeoisie, the communists, the people next door, the immigrants.....

You don't have to be a communist to have fallen nature.

This tendency leads to endless conflicts.

Cutting people out, getting rid of them, locking them up, making them go away, accusing them....these are all actions motivated by fallen nature.

Fallen nature is concerned with being on top, being in charge, having power over others. With fallen nature, you want to be the most powerful, the subject.

Original nature is concerned with being in the center, connected to all, sharing love with all. Original nature acknowledges when others are higher, more loving than we are. Original nature responds to love, even if it means humbling yourself.

Original nature takes responsibility for your own actions first, before criticizing others. Fallen nature immediately blames someone else.

Politics is not the problem, it's fallen nature in politics that's the problem.

Religion itself is not the problem, it's fallen nature in religion that's the problem.

Fallen nature can screw anything up. Original nature can make anything better.
