Mission Weekly Newsletter

 Next Gen Mission

For the past 3 weeks, the missionaries were in Winter Mission—intensely investing themselves on the frontline, meeting hundreds of people, growing themselves, and building up their spiritual selves.

Now that Winter Mission has concluded, all of Next Gen Mission have gathered at Morgan's Ranch in Blanco, Texas. During this short workshop they will digest and process their experience, celebrate their victories, and acknowledge the growth that's to come.

Hard work like this must be rewarded. So the missionaries start the workshop bright and in line with the holidays coming up– a Secret Santa gift exchange! Through laughter and smiles, the missionaries felt love from each other through presents.

We'll see you next week, where we might share more testimonies of these missionaries, and some exciting things happening at the start of 2026.

Next Gen Mission is not just a gap-year program; it's a significant time period to dedicate and invest in the greater community, setting an internal foundation to guide them for life.
