

WFWP USA: HerStory Podcast Episode 5: Women are the Powerhouse

Grace Kisile
January 14, 2025

In this episode of the HerStory Podcast, Rafia Hasina, a dedicated peace advocate and leader in her Hawai'i community, shares her journey of leadership rooted in compassion and a deep sense of responsibility. She reflects on the transformative influence of Mother Moon in her life and how embracing peace begins from within, emphasizing the importance of personal growth and nurturing self-love. Rafia's story serves as a powerful reminder that inner peace is essential for creating meaningful change in the world.

Rafia highlights the key role of women in building strong, supportive families, which she believes are the foundation for a peaceful world. Drawing from her experiences, she illustrates how family dynamics shape individuals and their future paths. Rafia also speaks on the importance of fostering healthy relationships and the need to support both men and women in their roles to create harmony in society.

Through her journey, Rafia exemplifies how leadership is not about putting oneself on a pedestal but about reflecting the potential in others and encouraging them to embrace their own power. Her story is a testament to the power of compassion, empathy, and unity in leadership. Whether in family, community, or the professional sphere, Rafia's insights inspire listeners to lead with love and create lasting, positive change.

