

Heavenly Happy Heart - Why Church feels like a slice of the Heavenly Kingdom

"Good Morning, 'R' san!" She looks at me and smiles happily. R san, wife and mother of six or seven, had a stroke with consequential brain damage many years ago. She happily cooks in the church kitchen nearly every day.

"Good Morning, Mr I!" He smiles and returns my greeting. Thin Mr. I's heart was shattered years ago when his precious son drowned in a lake. Mr. I faithfully cleans the Fellowship Hall and stairs to the chapel.

Mr. K is cleaning the second level, though he walks a bit twisted because of his back problem.

It was a heavenly morning ... my heart is moved by loving emotion for these people. This seems like a slice of the Heavenly Kingdom.
