

Environmental Project "Let's Do It!" in Estonia

Olga Martinson - May 11, 2019

From the 1st to 11th of May, Blessed Families of Estonia joined the global environmental project "Let's do it!".

This project was born in Estonia and is currently held in many countries around the world. The essence of the project - environmental protection, garbage collection on the nature and other useful things in this direction. The project is open to both individual volunteers and organizations.

Practicing the word of True Father that concern for the environment is the embodiment of the Third Blessing, Blessed Families of Estonia decided to take part in this project.

True Mother constantly calls us to care for nature. Also, this is a national project, therefore families wanted to join it and support our countrymen in such an important matter.

On May 1st Pichugin's family was cleaning up old leaves in the school park in their village and was laying a tile track, and Martinson's family in the village Kerhe together with students and teachers of the local school was cleaning up the forest. Ryabtsov's family picked up trash and old leaves around their home.

On May 11 Family Federation members decided to clean up from garbage and fallen branches the park where the Holy Ground is located. On the same day Astapov's family joined a group of 50 people for garbage collection on Aegna Island.

True Father says that if we take care of the Holy Ground, then there will be a growth of the Church. Next day we saw the result - many members attended the Sunday service.

Participation in the project is a good opportunity for members to come together and do something practical and useful. This project brings people together and gives a good education for the Second Generation children. By watching an example of their parents, they learn to protect nature, not to throw garbage on the ground.

As a result everybody worked hard, got inspired, became united and shared meal together.
