food for thought

Noticing

There is a story of a professor who gave the class a pop quiz. The final question was a surprise to everyone: “What is the first name of the woman who cleans our classroom?” Some of the students thought this was some kind of joke. Many had seen the janitor and even bumped into her several times. She was tall, dark-haired and in her fifties. When the time was up, all students handed their quiz with all, but the last question answered. Nobody knew her name. At the end of the class, one student asked if the last question would count toward the quiz grade. The professor replied, “Absolutely, in your work and in life, you will meet many people. All are significant. They deserve your attention and care, even if all you do is smile and say “hello.”
