

WFWP USA: What Black History Month Means for Councilmember Berdette Hodge

Glenda Lambert and Nishia Slater
March 21, 2023

Two WFWP HerStory Awardees; Nishia Slater, Owner of Star Life Wellness Group, LLC, and Anjanette Foster, Founder of SISTALUV and a certified life coach and mentor, sat down with current Councilmember Berdette Hodge, the first Black woman to be the council member for the city of Tempe, Arizona and the Tempe educational school board. Listening to her story, sharing her experiences and celebrating these remarkable "firsts" we've learned about the challenges of overcoming injustices, what Black History Month means to her and the impact that her role as councilwoman is making within the Tempe communities.

Councilwoman Berdette Hodge

Berdette Hodge has been a resident of the city of Tempe for over 40 years. She was raised in Tempe and had the privilege of raising her sons here, too. She is a graduate and parent of Tempe schools, a leader in Tempe charities, and a lifelong contributor to our city through public service and a passion for community-building. In July of 2022, she was sworn in as the first Black woman to serve on the Tempe

City Council, the most progressive and diverse council in the state of Arizona.

In the interview, Councilmember Hodge shared reflections on her historic position on the city council, her personal culture and tradition and what honoring Black history month meant to her.

Anjanette Foster, Councilmember Hodge and Nishia Slater.

Councilmember Hodge's culture and tradition were shared by personal stories and how history has affected her life. She states: BLACK HISTORY IS HISTORY! Celebrating Black History Month Councilwoman Hodge related many of her experiences growing up as a young girl experiencing injustice; she was curious about the "where are the other black figures" and wanted to teach her Black community about the accomplishments and achievements of many other Black role models. She is very passionate about being a strong voice in the community and is highly focused on building a community of Black leaders for generations to follow.

Growing up, her parents taught her to always respect elders and has taught her sons to live by that standard. That is part of Black history and our family history. That is a culture she wants to continue to follow.

Councilmember Hodge will always stay true to herself and wants to leave a great legacy of service for the next generation of young, black women to continue. Honoring Black History Month should be celebrated each day where we honor each other each day of the year! Not just 28 days of February.

Nishia Slater was deeply touched and left the interview with eyes filled with tears knowing that there is a woman in public office, willing to make a BIG difference in the lives of her Tempe community.

It was an honor interviewing Councilmember Hodge during Black History Month, a passionate woman with a heart to serve her family and community.

HerStory Award

Throughout history we have heard much about 'his story,' which means there is still so much of 'her story' yet to be told. To unearth these incredible stories, WFWP USA recognizes and honors women not only for their outstanding accomplishments in various fields of endeavor, in the form of a HerStory Award, but especially for the story "behind it."

Each HerStory recipient has been selected for her courage, compassion, and commitment to using her gifts and talents to uplift others, despite often overwhelming challenges. Upon receiving this award, we ask the recipient to share a few practical points of lessons learned as they overcame trials and tribulations, in order to encourage other women, and also to share those nuggets of wisdom with the next generation.

This award encourages all women to know that by investing into people and relationships, you have influence and thus already are a leader regardless of title or position, and thus have the ability to accomplish extraordinary things for the sake of the greater good!

This is a tribute to all the women around the world who are not just leaders, but peace leaders that are "Living by the Logic of Love."

Nishia Slater

Watch Full HerStory Program from Feb 26, 2022

Nishia Slater was awarded the HerStory Award at the National HerStory Award launch of the Global Women's Peace Network on February 26, 2022, for her exemplary journey of overcoming unimaginable obstacles and using her life lessons to help many more women become empowered through her work.

Being born into poverty in the early 80's, I was not aware of the opportunities I had in front of me. I have learned how to use my trauma and obstacles as stepping stones to get me where I am. Growing up I knew I wanted to help people, but I didn't know how because my voice was taken away from me at an early age. Even though this has been a passion of mine for a long time, I did not know where to start and I never had anyone to help me.

I have spent the majority of my life being a loving mother to my 3 children. From being a high school dropout to having a baby at 14 to being raped and molested over and over again, I chose not to give up. I knew my children needed me and in the long run, I learned that I needed myself. I didn't understand that I wasn't living my life with purpose, but I rose above it and started to focus on myself, which helped me to feel empowered and confident.

During the pandemic, I launched my Life Coaching business and became the owner of Star Life wellness Group LLC, helping women to choose themselves and live life with purpose. Since then, I have been interviewed, spoke on panels, been a guest speaker on podcasts, hosted events, became a 2x published author, public speaker, transformed my life for the better, and so much more!

In 2019 I created a space for women to empower, inspire, and uplift them, since then it has grown to nearly 1,000 women. The connections I have made with those women have been life changing.

I have provided free 4 week beta coaching to women who are not able to afford my coaching program, but want to make a change and difference in their lives. This has brought me relationships with women from all over. I have grown to mentor them and assist them through their journey.

My webinars I create are to help women break through their generational trauma and develop a healthier mindset. This allows me to bring awareness in our community, in households, and help women to embrace themselves and live up to their true potential. I desire to see women living life on purpose.

My mission for 2022 and moving forward is to hold space for women who have endured trauma and are afraid to change. I am creating workshops, seminars, and coaching programs to help them along their journey. It brings me great joy seeing and helping women to see and understand their worth and gain the confidence they need along the way. I am on the mission to become recognized as a national public speaker. I want to use my voice for women who have lost their voice and show them how to be their authentic selves.

This journey has taught me to be the change I want to see in this world.

Anjanette Foster-Miles

March 31, 2022 · WFWP USA

Watch the Full HerStory Program from March 26, 2022

Anjanette Foster-Miles was awarded the HerStory Award at the National HerStory Award Ceremony of the Global Women's Peace Network on March 26, 2022, for her exemplary and selfless service to dispel the stigmas surrounding mental health challenges, and support, heal, and uplift others, based on her journey of overcoming unimaginable challenges.

Born March 15, 1976 in Chicago, IL, Anjanette Foster-Miles is a mother of four daughters and grandmother of three grandsons. She always wanted more for her children and wanted to give them a different upbringing than what she experienced. She was taught to sweep her problems under the rug and be strong. Anjanette experienced depression in its highest form from a teenager and was later diagnosed with a Bi-Polar disorder as an adult. She walked around holding pain on the inside and stayed silent about the distress that other people caused her. Covering all the problems, issues and pain eventually created layers of masks. Suffering in silence, hiding behind guilt, shame, abandonment, fear and doubts, Anjanette became self-inflicted and beat suicide twice. Her voice was trapped inside her, pleasing everyone that caused her pain. Anjanette fell in a black hold called "Darkness" her mindset was a ticking time bomb and she became emotionally unbalance, landing her in different mental hospitals.

Anjanette was eager and wanted more to follow her dreams and break generational cycles of poverty and depression for her daughters, as well as people. After moving from Chicago in 1999, she obtained her GED in the state of Michigan in 2001. She then relocated to Arizona in 2003 with no family and continued building a life for her family.

Although her setbacks, trials and tribulations as a single mom was challenging, she never stopped being determined to succeed. From what she had experienced, Anjanette loved harder and never stopped being compassionate, she always lit up any room she was present in. She stayed determined to succeed on so many levels. In 2004, she enrolled with an organization called Arizona OIC, in which she completed a certification program for CNA (Certified Nursing Assistant). As she found work in the nursing home in her field, Anjanette became discouraged with observations and decided to change her career. In 2007 she enrolled in Lamson College Medical and Billing program where she graduated in 2008 with a 4.0, Dean's list. What was more amazing is that Anjanette won a 4-year scholarship to the University of Phoenix while being a student in Lamson College. She entered an essay contest through Big Brothers Big Sister Foundation and was awarded a "First Chance Scholarship" She enrolled in University of Phoenix 3months after graduating from Lamson College.

Anjanette then graduated in 2012 with her Bachelor of Science in Healthcare Administration. Throughout her life she went through health issues that had an effect on her mentally. Undergoing therapy and medication treatment throughout her battle with depression, she never felt great about her accomplishments. Anjanette has had over 15+ procedures/surgeries on her body. She saw a therapist and underwent medication therapy on and off battling her journey with depression. She made bad decisions and looked for love in all the wrong places. She became emotionally unbalanced and had trouble working for corporate and stability in the work-place. Anjanette believed it was much more she was on this earth to accomplish. She always knew she had a bigger purpose & always told herself, "I'm Born with Excellence". Her spiritual walk with God manifested as a child and always believed in the power of prayer. She never stopped seeking guidance and counsel from God and one day God revealed to Anjanette. He whispered to her, "I know I created you to be energy and I see the work you're doing but I need to use YOU to save millions in the world" now go tell the people of the land about your depression, "go ahead now and Uncover your own Mask".

It was much more in life she wanted to do to help assist people with depression and mental challenges. It's her passion and she wants people to know they are not alone and don't have to suffer in silence. Now that the chains are broken and the darkness is under her feet, Anjanette has regained her voice to speak out and be a beacon of hope. Through her life mental challenges and mistakes, she is helping people heal by mentoring, counseling and showing others there is greatness after depression. She invested in herself and knows how vital "personal development" is to her personal life and business journey.

She launched a movement called "SISTALUV" in 2013 which focuses on breaking the stigma to Mental Health, designed to be a help to the disadvantaged. Anjanette strongly believes in minimizing stressors and struggles in the community to eliminate depression for families. She mentored, encouraged and counseled for free. Anjanette is committed to creating platforms for voices to be heard, in hopes to save one life at a time. She has been interviewed by AZTZ News (Phoenix) along with hosting events such as: Christmas Toys Drives, Feeding the homeless, Anti-Bullying Dance group, Cancer walks and participated with the Arizona Foundation for Suicide Prevention Walk.

Anjanette has partnered with a host of community programs including St. Mary's Food Bank & UMOM, a program designed to help homeless women and their families stabilize themselves through their services. Considered to be a philanthropist, and someone committed to helping make a difference in her community, Anjanette recently got certified as a Life Coach in 2021 and is looking forward to becoming a more active voice in the community raising Mental Health Awareness. She is determined to help others uncover their mask but while she is the help, Anjanette is also a client of her own services. She truly believes in "Life after Depression" and exemplifies it.

Anjanette created a "Mental Health Masquerade" featured on zoom and had a successful kick-off December 2021. The mission was to give others the opportunity to come and hear courageous stories of people who have gone through depression in hopes to uncover their own mask. The outcome and results of the Mental Health Masquerade were so phenomenal that it would be yearly and curriculum and courses are now being implemented.

Her abilities and commitment to thrive in her mission and purpose, in 2022, Anjanette was awarded the "HerStory Award" through the World Federation for Peace USA organization. Whatever it takes- Anjanette continues to see an opportunity for growth in advancing her career and contribution for the overall success for the organization as well the community.

About Councilmember Berdetta Hodge

Berdetta Hodge has been a resident of the city of Tempe for over 40 years. She was raised in Tempe and had the privilege of raising her sons here, too. She is a graduate and parent of Tempe schools, a leader in Tempe charities, and a lifelong contributor to our city through public service and a passion for community-building.

Berdetta brings experience managing one of Arizona’s best school districts. In 2016, Berdetta made history, becoming the first African American woman elected to public office in the city of Tempe. She has served in leadership for the last three years as President and Vice President of the Tempe Union High School District Governing Board, where she has stood as a champion for the needs of students, educators, staff, and working families.

Running the school board entails more than just leading schools—it means operating community institutions responsible to tens of thousands of Tempe families and working with local businesses and governments to make Tempe the best place to work and learn in Arizona.

She has consistently been a voice for making
