Afterward, 16 prominent and respected personalities of the municipality of Gjakova became part of the UPF family, representing the fields of art, culture, education, medicine, engineering, journalism and politics.

A very peaceful atmosphere was created in which the participants cordially congratulated each other for the title of Ambassador for Peace but also shared very fond memories they had of each other from the work done together over the years.

Because the event was held on the eve of local elections of 2021, the Gjakova Peace Council came out with an appeal to all voters in Kosovo: "We wish the voting process to be peaceful, democratic and dignified."
