The Pointe-Noire Prefecture was represented by the secretary general of UPF, Mr. Jean Claude Etoumbakoundou. The Town Hall of Ngoyo was represented by the Administrator-Mayor, Mr. Wilfrid Paka Banthoud.

The workshop began with an interfaith invocation by the departmental leader of the FFWPU, Maixent Milolo, followed by a word of welcome from Mr. Paka Banthoud. Then the departmental chairman, Bounda Michel, explained the context of the workshop, and invited the Ambassadors for Peace to unite their efforts for a more stable Congo in peace and in unity.

Highlights of the workshop:

The secretary general of UPF Pointe-Noire, Augustin Zodzi, developed the main theme: "The Creative Minority for a Heavenly Congo in Unity, Work and Progress." He used the approach of the unification of the spirit and the body as well as that of the unification of the male and female polarities to explain, in depth, the holistic vision of the motto of Congo, which is "Unity * Work * Progress," to invite the public to get involved in the development of Congo.

The national leader of FFWPU in Congo, Rev. Norbert Ndielle Moutsatsi, presented the five Universal Principles to the ambassadors before the nomination of the new laureates.

Then, 5 new Ambassadors for Peace were appointed, followed by the presentation of the autobiography of Dr. Hak Ja Han Moon, Mother of Peace.

The participants shared a meal at the end of the workshop.
