

WFP Russia: Youth Moral Education Training - Compass of Conscience

Olga Vakulinsky
September 15, 2025

WFP of Russia held a 3-day Educational Training program on moral education for young people on September 13-15, 2025. We called this special team and the program itself "Compass of conscience". 25 people from different cities of Russia took part in this program including 2 school directors with their students. It was a very fruitful program which included 4 lectures on moral education with group discussions and lecture practice after each lecture.

Young people (high school children and college students) were really moved and inspired by the whole program. They actively took part in discussions and sincerely invested their hearts into lecture practice. As a result of the program on September 15 the team was invited to one of the Moscow schools and gave 4 lectures for different classes. Most of the young lectures gave lectures on moral education at schools for the first time in their lives but they managed to do that really well and received very good reflections from school children. After those lectures at school many schoolchildren have written in their reflections that they also would like to join such a volunteer team compass of conscience in the future. Their school directors were also very inspired and grateful and expressed their determination to continue supporting such programs in the future.