THE MOTHER OF PEACE

Dr. HAK JA HAN

INTRODUCING IAYSP

After decades of developing numerous youth programs, in February of 2017, Dr. Hak Ja Han founded the The International Association of Youth and Students for Peace (IAYSP).

IAYSP is an NGO with Special Consultative status with the United Nations Economic & Social Council (ECOSOC). By providing education & opportunities to serve, IAYSP helps youth impact their communities and the world.

A SELFLESS CULTURE

IAYSP is rooted in a culture of Hyo Jeong, a Korean term that means filial heart. It begins with the selfless love between children and parents and expands as youth develop into lives of service for the community, nation, & world.

Through its 4 Core Principles: Responsibility, Integrity, Service, and Empathy – IAYSP raises global leaders and supports the United Nation's goals for sustainable development.

GLOBAL YOUTH

On the world stage, IAYSP has official locations in over 45 countries, creating a bridge for youth to connect with governmental leaders and create change.

One example of this is IAYSP USA's opportunity to speak at the United Nations 2025 ECOSOC Partnership Forum last February – being one of only six non-governmental organizations (NGOs) with the opportunity to do so.

ARCHITECTS OF PEACE

The Peace Designer project is one of IAYSP's most impactful initiatives. Peace Designer is a 1-day learning program that mentors youth to create peace projects based on their strengths and passions.

Across the world, dozens of projects for peace and community service opportunities are discussed, planned, and implemented by IAYSP participants each year.
