

~ A Personal Invitation ~

Dear Friend,

I write with deep abiding respect and love for America and for its leaders who truly hold the key to move the world toward lasting peace. In view of your vital leadership role during these challenging times, I personally and most cordially invite you and your spouse to be our guests for a special banquet event on Saturday, March 5, 2011, commemorating the American release of my recently published autobiography. Mrs. Moon and I are hosting this event for select civic, academic, business and religious leaders. We would be honored with your presence to help us celebrate this once in a lifetime occasion.

On Saturday afternoon, we will gather at the Caesar's Palace Octavius Ballroom located at 3570 Las Vegas Boulevard South in Las Vegas for a time of inspiration and celebration. Please join me for this significant program which begins at 2:00 PM (doors open at 1:00 PM).

This year I celebrated my 91st birthday, and although many people have heard about me, very few have met me personally or have had the opportunity to understand the depth of my life's work. My mission in life has been to educate leaders and citizens with a deeper understanding of the central importance of faith, family and fidelity. One critical issue of concern is the need to secure God's guidance for America as we pray for her leaders and strive for a world of lasting peace. I want to bequeath to you the invaluable lessons I have learned through my life experience and through the prayers offered for the resolution of human conflict.

I firmly believe that God holds great hope for America as an inspirational light for the world – the model nation in which children, women, the family and all faiths and races are respected and protected. When America remains true to its noble founding, God's blessings for this nation will continue to flow. To further secure those blessings at this time, more than ever, we need divine guidance.

We hope you will agree with the urgency of this important message and will set aside time in your busy schedule to attend. Please pray about it and ask God to directly guide your decision.

May God's blessings be with you and your family.

Sincerely,

Rev. Dr. Sun Myung Moon
