Invitations: Korean Peninsula Webinar

Dear Distinguished Leader and Ambassador for Peace,

Korea and Japan have historical differences that go back to ancient times. They have different national characters and differing priorities inherent to peninsula and island nations. These have been exacerbated by the conflicts of the 20th century beginning with the Japanese occupation of Korea and continuing through World War II, the Korean War and today. But now the rise of China and other regional threats is an overriding concern that must take precedence over historical animosities. What is needed for reconciliation to happen between Japan and Korea? Not just cosmetic unity but something deeper.

Join our expert panel Tuesday, August 10 from 2-3 PM EDT.
