Today, American renters barely make enough to survive, much less save. Roots creates a unique investing ecosystem where commerce meets community. It enables those who have the resources to invest and make great returns while creating an opportunity for those traditionally left out to build wealth through the "Live In It Like You Own It" program. Roots Residents can become owners and partners the day they move in with zero out-of-pocket costs. Roots is real-life proof that commercial endeavors can create positive community impact!

Join us to learn about how this program is working to transform the traditional renter-landlord relationship and build a more balanced world.
