There is an extensive, interconnected nuclear buildup by the axis of authoritarianism: North Korea, Russia and China, with Iran emerging in the shadows. President Trump is embarking on the most high-stakes negotiations of his life in both Europe and the Mideast. Success is not assured; at risk is the world. Never before has the word “nuclear” been so freely used in coercive language against Ukraine, NATO, Taiwan and South Korea. What must the U.S. do to restore deterrence?

Join nuclear arms expert Amb. Robert G. Joseph, Ph.D., along with former six party talks special envoy Amb. Joseph DeTrani and Dr. Alexander Mansourov, professor of security studies at Georgetown University, in a discussion of today's multidimensional national security challenges.

This forum will be held on Tuesday, April 1st 2025 at 2 PM ET, livestreamed on washingtonbrief.org.

About the Washington Brief

The Washington Brief is a monthly series sponsored by The Washington Times Foundation, a 501(c)3 private foundation devoted to encouraging the highest ideals in cultural values and public-mindedness. The Foundation supports a variety of initiatives to resolve human conflict and strengthen peace through building bridges of understanding and cooperation between people, races and cultures, systems of governance and faith traditions.

Aimed at assessing risks and opportunities on the Korean Peninsula, The Washington Brief features experts from across the nation in areas pertaining to the deeply entrenched inter-Korean conflict as well as its impact on the wider international community.

Broadcast live once a month on YouTube and www.washingtonbrief.org, our series reaches hundreds of professionals actively working in fields such as foreign affairs, public policy, the military and humanitarian efforts.

Our goal is to bring to light the pressing issue of the peaceful reunification of the Korean peninsula through educating the public and working with the most informed thinkers on Northeast Asia to offer solutions.

As our diplomacy with Pyongyang proceeds in fits and starts, the international community faces many risks and opportunities in the pursuit of the peaceful resolution of numerous hot button issues with the DPRK and deeply entrenched inter-Korean conflict. For the U.S. and the world, these include nuclear weapons and human rights. For North Korea, these are regime survival, national security, and economic modernization. Korean reunification is the big issue that sits in the back of everyone's mind.

The Washington Brief is a project of the Washington Times Foundation.
