Dr. Hak Ja Han, founder of the International Association of Academicians for Peace, said that “entities achieve their purposes through harmonious unions fulfilling each other in true love according to natural principles”. Let us join our panelists to sincerely explore ways to balance the current paradigm and manifest heavenly relations on this amazing Mother Earth.

Dr. Staffan Berg (moderator), U.S. Coordinator, Association of Academicians for Peace
Dr. Katarina Connery, President, Women's Federation for World Peace, USA
Ms. Angelika Buczynski, Director of Special Projects, HJ International School for Peace and Public Leadership
Dr. Andrew Wilson, HJI Professor of Scriptural Studies, HJ International School for Peace and Public Leadership

The United Nations has been advocating for international peace and friendship since the dawn of destructive nuclear power 80 years ago. For the UN International Day of Peace, each September 21st, we envision the family of nations gathering in a pristine environment. To make real harmony, it will not do to continue history according to male-centered, competitive, winners'-rule narratives.

IAAP founder Dr. Hak Ja Han (often called Holy Mother Han) said that "entities achieve their purposes through harmonious unions fulfilling each other in true love according to natural principles". Let us join our panelists to sincerely explore ways to balance the current paradigm and manifest heavenly relations on this amazing Mother Earth.
