Marriage Works Series | With Debby Gullery

“Everyone, without exception, is struggling to gain happiness.” Husband and wife are no different. For the marital relationship to grow, it needs to be nurtured, and nurturing requires effort and investment from both partners. Learning some skills on how to go about it, how to deal with your spouse's different personality, character, and background, help a lot. This Marriage Works series provide those techniques and more. A comment from one of the participants:

"This one slide from the 3rd session sums it all up for me!"

Flipping Your Lid! | Myrna Lapres

Imagine that your brain is a two-story house with an upstairs and downstairs brain. The downstairs brain is considered the more primitive part as it is responsible for basic functions like breathing and blinking your eyes, for reactions and impulses (including fight, flight, or freeze) and strong emotions such as anger or fear...
