On May 8, WFWP Taiwan partnered with the Taoyuan FE21 shopping center in Taoyuan City, Taiwan, to host a "Family Happiness Carnival." Exciting games and charity sales filled the shopping center as families celebrated this special day. This celebration offered popular facial treatments called "Butterfly Facial Threading" and a body heat treatment known as "Weixi Rubbing" for mothers to help them relax and regain their beauty and health.

WFWP Taiwan designed a quiz called "Prize-Quiz" to promote the importance of conjugal love between a husband and wife, in order to raise a healthy family.

This interactive quiz included questions about household tasks, as well as prompts to praise mothers in front of the audience. Winners of the organized games also received special prizes. The participants of this quiz had the opportunity to express their grateful hearts to their mothers and wives, which melted the mothers' hearts.

Ms. Peng Suhua, President of the Chinese Academy of Orator Art, presented 3 brief talks related to the family, which were conducted in a lively and interactive manner, along with a QandA. Through these presentations, participants were able to further understand the value of motherhood, as well as learn how to promote women's rights and gender equality through everyday communication between couples.

The session also focused on how to implement sharing housework in the family to promote gender equality. In addition, couples also had the chance to learn and practice the 5 love languages to enhance good communication and intimacy between the husband and wife. The main takeaways from this event was the importance of husbands pampering their wife, affirming each other's value, building strong communication and doing household chores together, in order to create a warm and loving family relationship.
