Completing the 12th Spirituality Workshop and then Yeongseong Workshop, and I never thought I would go to such a Workshop for people having abilities, and being a teacher, but I heard many stories and had much interest in it.

Although I strived in a life of faith, walls rose up in me, and I decided to offer a full year before Heaven in prayer and devotion at Cheon Shim Won, and immediately after graduating from the university I entered the Workshop.

The distance between me and Mother seemed vast, but with calling out prayers every day and fasting with Hyo Jeong, I came to empathize with Mother's Loving Heart for me and for Heaven. To be able to dedicate each day for Mother alongside my ancestors was a true happiness as a child.

Moreover, during this period True Father was disciplining me with calling out prayers and intensive prayers. In the latter half of the Workshop, True Father asked me,

'Can you die for True Mother?'

Before I even realized it, the words, 'I don't want to.' slipped out of my mouth. And Father rebuked me, Saying, 'Your Hyo Jeong, your filial heart toward True Mother is nothing more than that. It is a lie.'

I wept endlessly. I had been offering devotion while crying out that I would stake my life for True Mother. I loathed myself when I realized that, in the end, I hesitated because I cherished my own life and was trading my baggage onto True Mother, ultimately collapsing before my fallen nature.

Yet, knowing Heaven's circumstances and Heart that sought to develop someone as weak as me, I earnestly prayed to True Father to Guide me that I could rapidly grow into a child capable of marching forward toward Heaven. Perhaps, True Father heard this prayer, and immediately after the Spirituality Workshop, I was guided into the role of a coordinator. I felt it was a burdensome position for someone with so many shortcomings, however, feeling True Father's Heart trying to rapidly mature me to attend True Mother, to the very end to fulfill Heaven's Dream, I resolved to complete the 6 months at the Academy and serve as the coordinator for the 22nd Yeongseong Workshop.

However, the role of the coordinator, which I took on for the first time, was by no means easy. There was so much I had to learn, and I had to stand in front of the trainees every single day, seeming like a sentence, knowing that my every word had an impact on the trainees. The responsibility felt heavy.

Yet, the hardest part for me was facing and overcoming my own fallen nature.

Although I had entered the Academy wanting to dedicate everything for True Mother, in the unfamiliar environment, the difficult situations persisted, and my heart gradually grew weary. As the coordinator I had the desire to pour myself out for the trainees appearance. But when things did not go the way I wanted, many resentful spirits influenced the fallen nature of mine, when even some days just waking up was so difficult. And there were many days that I wept alone.

However, phone calls with my mother were precious and happy time for me. I wanted to tell my mother that I was doing well as a coordinator and having a fun time. But eventually I couldn't even say such things. Every time we talked, I ended up crying and then even hesitating to call her.

Yet, my mother always believed in me and lent me strength from behind. My mother is not one for many words, but after listening to all my stories, every single time, she would just say, 'You are doing well. It's alright.' That single phrase was truly warm and a tremendous source of strength.

Through my mother who unconditionally loved and believed in me, I could feel the Love of True Mother and stand back up again. Moreover, seeing the trainees offer their devotion solely for True Mother, moved and inspired me deeply. Even though I was in a position to lead and give love to the trainees, I instead received so much strength from them making me feel a sense of apology along with deep gratitude.

Thinking that during the 27th Workshop, my shortcomings have placed far too many burdens upon True Father, I felt that, moving on I must fulfill my responsibility, so that Heaven could Work completely through me.

I had set a goal to add one more small needle through the role of coordinator and press forward. Whenever things grew physically or mentally difficult, with a mindset that with even greater hardship, I broke through my limits to establish a condition of goodness and place myself where Heaven could Work more powerfully.

During the Workshop I had been trapped within my own emotions, now I was able to feel the Heart of Heaven much more deeply. Thus, under True Father's Guidance, I served as a coordinator for both the 22nd and the 23rd Yeongseong Workshop. Though I am lacking in many ways, with the education of True Father and the help of fellow coordinators, we marched together for the Will.

I am grateful that I could pour myself out every day, and the more I poured myself out, I tragically realized the deep heart of the Parent toward their lost child.

Yesterday, as we concluded the graduation ceremony of the Yeongseong Workshop, seeing each and every trainee making a new departure as a small needle one with True Mother's Heart, I felt the Works and Love of Heaven. I want to tell the trainees who shed many tears and offered their devotion for True Mother over those 40 days that they truly worked hard and that I am deeply grateful. applause

Through this role of coordinator given by Heaven, I want to restore countless children to be the small needles one with Heaven's Heart. Marking the conclusion of this Academy training, I want to strive even further to Love Heavenly Parent and True Parents, staking my life entirely.

I sincerely love and thank the Okana Family members in Japan who made much devotion for me, and as well my beloved mother, father and sisters, and HPs and True Parents of HEH, I love You eternally.

Yeongseong Workshop graduate

Church Leader Chon In Chok

Beloved BF's and b and s from around the world. At this particular time of Mother's hardships and 14th Anniversary of Father's Seonghwa, gratitude to Heaven for allowing me to participate in the Yeongseong Workshop and offer devotion alongside family members worldwide

I am Chon In Chok, serving the Gwongmyung Community in Gyeonggi West District. I am participating in this 23rd Yeongseong Workshop together with my beloved wife, Hirari. As this Workshop began the question arose in my heart, 'What does offering devotion at Cheon Shim Won mean to me? I came to realize that Cheon Shim Won is not merely a Place of prayer.

Isn't Cheon Shim Won a Place where we align our True Parents's Hearts with our own mind, and where Heavenly Parent's Heart Resonates with mine" Thinking thus, I asked myself again,

'How much does my heart resemble Heavenly Parent's Heart?

Before that question, I naturally looked back on my life, and in that process, I discovered that deep within my heart, there were still wounds I had not yet laid down. I obeyed True Mother's Words, laid down what I was doing and participated in the first Universal Peace Academy. Since passing through that pace of the Academy, as a missionary, I have walked a path of ministry to this day.

Looking back, there were truly so many graces. On the other hand, there were also conflicts and pains within people and organizations that were difficult for me to bear. And in the end, I had to bear and then leave that place with a sense of being wounded and with deep betrayal.

I thought time would heal that, yet whenever I thought about that time and place, that matter left a sense of unfairness and anger that would well up from the depths of my heart.

Then one day I asked myself this question, 'What on earth have I been holding onto all this time?'

And I realized, while I was holding onto past wounds, those very wounds were holding down my life. At that moment, my heart ached deeply. It was because at that moment I realized that those wounds did not end with me. The people who watched me struggle from the closest distance was my wife and children.

I felt deep apology to my wife, and as I walked the path of witnessing and ministry, my wife endured many hardships while caring for our 3 young children. Yet, whenever I struggled, she stayed by my side, supported and encouraged me.

However, even while receiving such love from my wife, I could not easily let go of the wounds and anger in my heart. Therefore, as I participated in this 40-day Workshop, I resolved in my heart that, now, truly, I want to let go of these wounds.

Around that time, I watched the movie, which was recommended by our coordinator. The main character in the movie was living amidst deep wounds and anger, utterly unable to forgive the person who had inflicted such wounds upon them. Watching that movie, I wept a great deal, because at some point, I saw my own reflection as a protagonist of the movie.

Of course, the pain of a movie's protagonist cannot be compared to what I experienced, but one thing was the same. I had continuously been judging someone within my heart. I was a person who had been wounded. But at the same time, I was a person holding onto these wounds and trapping myself within them.

At that moment, I asked myself once again, 'What on earth have I been holding onto for the past ten years?'

I realized one thing, while I kept judging someone within my heart, my own heart was never free even for a single moment. From that time on, I began to think about forgiveness anew. Forgiveness is not about pretending that someone else's wrongdoings never happened, not was it amount to a wrong action not being a wrong action. Forgiveness came to me like this.

From now on, I will no longer allow these wounds to govern my life. At that instant, True Mother's Words arose in my heart:

Forgive, love and unite.

To be honest, until then, I might have thought that these Words were perhaps more necessary for other people. However, through this I realized that these Words were meant precisely for me.

And then I thought about True Mother's current situation, while Walking a Path more difficult than anyone else's, True Mother does not tell us to harbor hatred. She does not tell us to feel anger. She does not tell us to judge one another. Instead, She Says to us:

Forgive, Love, and Unite

Before those Words, I felt truly ashamed, and I realized that forgiveness is not a one-time emotion, but a path I must choose every day.

Just because I chose to forgive today does not mean my heart will remain at peace tomorrow. One day that matter may cross my mind again. A sense of unfairness may well up once more. Feelings of hatred may rise anew. But now I have come to know that, whenever that happens, I simply need to choose it once again.

Today, I choose forgiveness. And if unforgiveness comes again tomorrow, if something arises that makes it difficult to love, at that moment too, I will choose love once again. If that moment arises when it's hard to become one, at that very moment I will choose once again to become one.

Henceforth, whenever hatred and resentment visit my heart, through the Cheon Shim Won Vigil Devotion every day, I will resurrect those feelings into a heart of forgiveness and love.

Furthermore, through this Workshop, I gained another final realization from the person closest to me. To be honest, I have often felt in my heart, 'I hope my wife changes this specific aspect through this Workshop.' But at some point I realized that, whenever I focused solely on my wife's shortcomings, the love in my heart toward my wife was also diminishing little by little. At that moment, the thought struck me once again (about changing my mindset) because I was only looking at the other person's shortcomings.

If my wife has shortcomings, let me fill them first, let me understand them first, let me love 'first'. The moment I changed my heart in that way, wondrously enough, I felt the feeling of love toward my wife come alive once again. applause

At that moment I realized that this is the heart that Heavenly Parent Desires, not waiting for others to change first, but changing myself first. Not waiting for the other person to apologize first, but forgiving first. Not waiting for the other person to love first, but loving first.

Perhaps this was the cheonshim I needed to learn through this 40-day Workshop. Beloved BFs and b and s around the world, I cannot confidently say yet that I have completely forgiven. I am still lacking. In the future, past events may come to mind again. The sense of unfairness and hatred may well up in my heart once more.

Yet, in this Place, before Heavenly Parent and the True Parents of HEH, I want to make one resolute decision,

I will no longer wait for others to change first. I will change first. applause

I will forgive first. I will love first. I will become one and united first. And with that heart, I will serve our beloved community. I will look upon each of my b and s as a precious child of Heavenly Parent. I will understand first, reach out first, love first, reach out with gratitude and love.

And our beloved HMH, OBD, True Mother, Mother, You are no longer alone, I too will become one with Mother.

I will hold fast to the Words (of Direction) Mother Spoke: Forgive, Love and Unite (I will unite with Your Words of Direction) I will unite with my very life with Your Words, and I will live by Them.

Before Heavenly Parent and True Parents of HEH, I am Your child. Therefore, I will resemble You.

I will forgive as You Forgive

I will love as You Love and live united within Your Will

Beloved, b and s, today I choose the path of forgiveness, today I choose the path of love, today I choose the path of becoming One.

Today and tomorrow, I will live by choosing the path once again.

This concludes my humble testimony. TYVM

Greetings and he bows and bows again

I am Petchung Gi, grateful for this precious time...

There are many who have overcome greater adversity than I, and I am inadequate, so I ask for your understanding.

I received the invitation to go to the SW twice, and while I was undergoing the seonghwa Workshop, having barely survived, granted an extension to remain on earth, I am standing here today to speak before my fellow brothers and sisters, and want to thank Heavenly Parent and HMH True Mother, True Parents of HEH, and also the Special Prayer Team, who offered prayers at Cheon Shim Won, centered on the President of Cheon Shim Won. Furthermore, I express gratitude to the family members of Quado Church.

By attending the HQ, the family members of Gaphyo Church, my wife and our 4 children for their devotion of 4,400 bows and calling out prayers, and to everyone around the world who heard the news and offered prayer and devotion at Cheon Shim Won. In particular, I express my boundless gratitude to the members of the 6,000-couple Family Tree Love Association and two other brothers and sister whose families directly and indirectly helped me with treatments at the hospital.

The Era when H's Power and Love Manifest Directly on earth

The body of a fallen human being inheriting Satan's love, life and blood line, stands on Satan's side, while the mind stands on the frontline of God's Side, locked in a continuous battle.

This way, love centered on myself is related not to the mind but to the body. This body has become a ball room for the devel. It has become a stake with which the devil ties his anger.

When the mind occupies the plus position representing Heaven, the body becomes another plus against the mind. Correcting this is our lifelong duty.

Knowing this, God Created religion as a repair shop because God exists only in a vertical Position, God is a Being Who cannot Act without passing through the mind, while Satan operates from all directions. He can always act from 360 degrees. We are bound to lose by Satan's activities.

Because the mind is in a vertical position, it is singular. A vertical line is not a horizontal foundation, so it cannot advance but for a horizontal foundation. Therefore, it is easy to be dragged away by the body.

In a strong enough environment, we must receive by offering devotion from the vertical position. We must really govern the body and lead it around for 3 to 5 years to make it a habit. There are no other ways to make repairs that lead to the age of peace.

Peace will come to this universe only when the battle between God and the countless evil spirits of satanic world comes to an end. You must realize God's Situation, Who Carries our the Providence from such Principled Position.

You must never forget that no matter what you do, when or where your ancestors from the spirit world are with you, you must live your life instead with the SW. It means you must become spiritual people who live in communion with the SW in devotion and prayer, having achieved completion on earth.

In this Era of Cheon Il Guk, where God's Omnipotent True-Love Power Manifest Directly on this earth, we must clearly understand the Heavenly World.

Please earnestly study the SW, receive the Blessing centered on God, build a Family Under True Limits and prepare for eternal life through a life living for the sake of others

Now, people must realize that the time has come for the earthly and Heavenly Kingdom (of KingFather and KingMother Parent), which is God's Ideal, is to arise, and we must strive to receive the touch of H Fortune, which is comparable to the limited capabilities of human beings.

Blessed are those of the Kingdom (KingFather and KingMother Realm) of Heaven, who walk the path of filial sons and daughters, loyal patriots, saints and divine sons and daughters, glorifying the most precious true lineage of Heaven with a truly gentle and humble attitude before The Living God...
