PRESENTS
THE WASHINGTON BRIEF
North Korea Ups the Ante in Strategic Standoff

GUEST PANELIST
Adm. Harry Harris
U.S. Ambassador to Korea (2018-21); Commander, U.S. Pacific Command (2015-18)

Ambassador Joseph DeTrani
Security Issues commentator; former Special Envoy for negotiations with North Korea

Dr. Alexandre Mansourov
Professor, Center for Security Studies, Georgetown University

Dr. Michael Jenkins
President, The Washington Times Foundation

North Korea fired two ballistic missiles in the direction of Japan last week, the latest in an unprecedented number of missile tests in 2022. Add to that the North's multiple drone incursions across the DMZ, the latest unexpected reshuffle of senior Korean People's Army officials, and Kim Jong-Un's major policy directions for 2023 to "exponentially increase the country's nuclear arsenal," to mass produce tactical nuclear weapons, develop a new ICBM, and put a spy satellite into orbit. Destabilization has a tipping point, and many forces are converging. Where are we headed in the coming year, and what are our options? Join special guest panelist Admiral Harry Harris (U.S. Navy retired), former Commander Pacific Command and former U.S. Ambassador to Korea, along with former six-party talks envoy Amb. Joseph DeTrani, and Georgetown University security studies professor Dr. Alexandre Mansourov.
