PRESENTS
THE WASHINGTON BRIEF
The Korean Peninsula: Strategic Outlook

GUEST PANELIST
Mr. Markus Garlauskas
Director, Indo-Pacific Security Initiative, Scowcroft Center for Strategy and Security, Atlantic Council

Ambassador Joseph DeTrani
Security Issues Coordinator, former Special Envoy for negotiations with North Korea

Dr. Alexandre Mansourov
Professor, Center for Security Studies, Georgetown University

Dr. Michael Jenkins
President, The Washington Times Foundation

Geopolitical strategists must always consider unintended consequences. Brinkmanship on the Korean peninsula increases potential for spillover into a wider conflict that includes China. Likewise, China and the U.S. in conflict over Taiwan could escalate to the Korean Peninsula. Meanwhile, strategists consider the implications of the Russia-Ukraine conflict for East Asia. Will North Korea's Kim Jong-un's words and actions doubling down on nuclear missile development cause other nations to become nuclear powers? Join for a lively discussion with our special guest Mr. Markus Garlauskas, director of the Scowcroft Center's Indo-Pacific Security Initiative and former longtime U.S. National Intelligence Officer for North Korea, along with former six-party talks envoy Amb. Joseph DeTrani, and Georgetown University security studies professor Dr. Alexandre Mansourov. This edition of The Washington Brief was pre-recorded Friday, February 3, before Secretary of State Blinkin postponed his trip to China.
