THE WASHINGTON BRIEF
Russia at a Crossroads

GUEST PANELIST
Daniel N. Hoffman
Commentator, Fox News and The Washington Times; former CIA Moscow station chief

Ambassador Joseph DeTrani
Former special envoy for negotiations with North Korea

Dr. Alexandre Mansourov

Dr. Michael Jenkins
Editorial, The Washington Times contributor

Since Putin's decision to invade Ukraine, Russia has suffered a series of unintended consequences. There are cracks forming in Russia's autocracy, but how significant are they? From a poor military performance against Ukraine that surprised everyone, to an attention-getting, albeit brief, rebellion from the mercenary Wagner Group – very little about Russia is going according to expectations. The effects are felt in the Indo-Pacific, including China, observing events closely as it eyes its own geopolitical priorities. Join Daniel N. Hoffman, commentator and former CIA Moscow station chief, along with Ambassador Joseph DeTrani, former U.S. envoy to the six-party talks, and Dr. Alexandre Mansourov, professor of security studies at Georgetown, as they discuss the situation in Russia and implications worldwide.
