

The Washington Brief webcast: North Korea a Catalyst for Conflict on the Korean Peninsula

Larry Moffitt
December 31, 2023

The Washington Times
FOUNDATION
PRESENTS
THE WASHINGTON BRIEF
Catalyst for Conflict on the Korean Peninsula
A belligerent North Korea, aligned with Russia, China, and Iran creates a volatile chemistry

GUEST PANELIST
Adm. Harry Harris
U.S. Ambassador to Korea (2018-21); Commander, U.S. Pacific Command (2015-18)

Ambassador Joseph DeTrani
Security Issues commentator; former Special Envoy for negotiations with North Korea

Dr. Alexandre Mansourov
Professor, Center for Security Studies, Georgetown University

Dr. Michael Jenkins
President, The Washington Times Foundation

In mid-December, North Korea launched another solid-fuel, road mobile Intercontinental Ballistic Missile (Hwasong-18) capable of targeting the entire U.S. This, in addition to its new nuclear preemptive, first-use policy and its material support to Russia in its war in Ukraine, and to Hamas in its terrorist activities against Israel. How do we get North Korea to stop this escalation and return to negotiations? Previously, North Korea wanted security assurances, economic development assistance and a path to normal relations with the U.S., South Korea and Japan. Is this still possible?

Join special guest panelist Admiral Harry Harris (U.S. Navy ret.), former Commander Indo-Pacific Command and former U.S. Ambassador to South Korea, along with former Six-Party Talks envoy and panel moderator Amb. Joseph R. DeTrani, and Georgetown University security studies professor Dr. Alexandre Mansourov for this special New Year discussion.

Tuesday, January 2, 2024 | 2-3 ET
Register at washingtonbrief.org

The Washington Brief webcast Catalyst for Conflict on the Korean Peninsula

A belligerent North Korea aligned with Russia, China and Iran creates a volatile chemistry

Tuesday, January 2, 2024 from 2 to 3 PM EST

In mid-December, North Korea launched another solid-fuel, road mobile Intercontinental Ballistic Missile (Hwasong-18) capable of targeting the entire U.S. This, in addition to its new nuclear preemptive, first-use policy and its material support to Russia in its war in Ukraine, and to Hamas in its terrorist activities against Israel. How do we get North Korea to stop this escalation and return to negotiations? Previously, North Korea wanted security assurances, economic development assistance and a path to normal relations with the U.S., South Korea and Japan. Is this still possible?

Join special guest panelist Admiral Harry Harris (U.S. Navy ret.), former Commander

Indo-Pacific Command and former U.S. Ambassador to South Korea, along with former Six-Party Talks envoy and panel moderator Amb. Joseph R. DeTrani, and Georgetown University security studies professor Dr. Alexandre Mansourov for this special New Year discussion.

Register here to attend: washingtonbrief.org/register/

Tuesday, January 2, 2024 from 2 to 3 PM EST

See flier attached

Larry Moffitt

Executive Director
The Washington Times Foundation
3600 New York Avenue, NE
Washington, DC 20002
SanViejo@gmail.com

The Washington Times

FOUNDATION

PRESENTS

THE WASHINGTON BRIEF

Catalyst for Conflict on the Korean Peninsula

A belligerent North Korea, aligned with Russia, China, and Iran creates a volatile chemistry

GUEST PANELIST
Adm. Harry Harris

U.S. Ambassador to Korea (2018-21); Commander, U.S. Pacific Command (2015-18)

Ambassador Joseph DeTrani

Security Issues commentator; former Special Envoy for negotiations with North Korea

Dr. Alexandre Mansourov

Professor, Center for Security Studies, Georgetown University

Dr. Michael Jenkins

President, The Washington Times Foundation

In mid-December, North Korea launched another solid-fuel, road mobile Intercontinental Ballistic Missile (Hwasong-18) capable of targeting the entire U.S. This, in addition to its new nuclear pre-emptive, first-use policy and its material support to Russia in its war in Ukraine, and to Hamas in its terrorist activities against Israel. How do we get North Korea to stop this escalation and return to negotiations? Previously, North Korea wanted security assurances, economic development assistance and a path to normal relations with the U.S., South Korea and Japan. Is this still possible?

Join special guest panelist Admiral Harry Harris (U.S. Navy ret.), former Commander Indo-Pacific Command and former U.S. Ambassador to South Korea, along with former Six-Party Talks envoy and panel moderator Amb. Joseph R. DeTrani, and Georgetown University security studies professor Dr. Alexandre Mansourov for this special New Year discussion.

Tuesday, January 2, 2024 | 2-3 ET

Register at washingtonbrief.org 