

CORE VALUES FOR LIFE

CVL

a faith community of young adults preparing to create God-centered families

USA NATIONAL HANGOUT

CVL is a faith community of young adults that supports each other in developing qualities essential to raising a healthy God-centered family. A program of Family Peace Association, CVL is for those of age 17 and up preparing to start family life following the Blessing. CVL youth support each other nationwide through video calls to discuss relevant topics as brothers and sisters focused on attending God and True Family.

PROTECTING TRUE FAMILY

The following are excerpts from the most recent CVL call where brothers and sisters discussed the meaning of “protecting True Family” and how to make it a practical and active part of their daily lives:

“Protecting True Family can take many forms. Maybe we don't always have the opportunity to be in close proximity to True Family. How do we support the True Family through the intangibles, spiritually? Through prayer? How can we protect them by upholding what it means to be a member of the extended True Family?”

“As individuals around True Family, I think a lot of it is motivation. There's a lot of work to be done on a personal level. Do we have a pure motivation? Is it compromised or vulnerable in any shape or form? What is my motivation?”

“Being in Montana, we don't get very direct personal time with HJN and True Family, but a point to protect them is to be informed. Know what's going on. Being so far away, I'm in my own bubble, going to school, but to take the time to look up what's going on, talk to people, is one way of protecting them in the sense of, if someone asks you a question, you can answer.”

“When we were talking about unity, I question, ‘How do we create a unified group?’ What are the practices you, as an individual, can do to support that kind of community? I feel like trust is a huge part of creating a unified culture. Are we people that can warrant trust and give trust? How do we pursue that kind of unity?”

“If blessed families know the value of True Family, then we will naturally be protecting them. The more I thought about it, the more I realized that if we really understand the value that the True Family has, not just as the Moon family but especially to Heavenly Father, being the root family that He has been working for throughout all of providential history, then we would naturally make effort in our daily lives to think about them, protect them, educate our families about them.”
