

You have studied the Exposition of the Divine Principle in order to quickly get the gist of it

Sun Myung Moon
March 1, 2007

Photo date and location unknown

You have studied the Exposition of the Divine Principle in order to quickly get the gist of it. Then, you only studied the outline of it; but you thought you mastered the Divine Principle. When you share the content of the Principle, you substituted your own words and understandings for God's word.

As a result, you actually threw away the truth - God's word. I loathe such a method or manner. I know really well... What you share is false and far from the original content of the Principle. I detest this. I am telling you that you should not touch what is written in this book. I can even smell it.

When I look at the book that was just published and printed that is placed on my table. Even then, I know it. Even if you gain a PhD and seek my signature of approval, I will not write my signature to just anyone. From now on, I will appraise your requests very carefully and determine right or wrong.

Heaven must select what is necessary and segregate it from the rest. I am such a person. The volumes of my selected speeches could be useless, if I had not paid attention. I will go to the spirit world while holding the open book in my hands when I pass away. (557-309, March 1, 2007)